TORBRYAN is a parish and village, 3 miles north-east from Staverton station on the Ashburton branch, 4 west from Kingskerswell station on the Torquay branch of the South Devon section of the Great Western railway, and 4 south-by-west from Newton Abbot, in the Mid division of the county, Haytor hundred, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Newton Abbot union, Newton Abbot and Torquay county court district, rural deanery of Moreton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. By Local Government Board Order 16,369, the civil parish of Denbury was amalgamated with this parish and by Order, 16,367, Bremridge was added from Ipplepen, March 25, 1885, and by Order 16,367, Morley cottages & Littlejoy farm were transferred from Torbryan to Highweek, March 25, 1884. The church of the Holy Trinity is an ancient building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, separated from the nave by arcades of five arches, chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles containing 4 bells, with inscriptions in Old English and Roman characters, the first two inscriptions being confusedly arranged: the chancel retains a piscina, and there is one at the east end of each aisle: a magnificent carved oak screen, richly ornamented with fan tracery, divides the nave and chancel: the pulpit and the communion-table are also very fine specimens of carved oak: in the south aisle is a stone staircase leading to the ancient entrance to the rood loft: in 1887 the organ was restored and removed to the north chapel, at the cost of the rector: the stained east window contains some very good old glass: the communion plate of silver dates from the 17th century: there are 250 sittings: in the churchyard, entered by an old lych gate, are the base and part of the shaft of a large stone cross of ancient date, and also a yew tree planted in 1715 by the Rev. Edward Goswell, then rector. The register of baptisms, marriages and burials dates from the year 1564. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £165, including 17 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of and held since 1863 by the Rev. Charles Wolston LL.B. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The poor have 20s. yearly, left by John Petre in 1370. There are no manorial rights. The principal landowners are Mrs. Ley, Daniel Robert Scrutton esq. of Ogwell, Newton Abbot, and the rector. The soil is red loam; subsoil, sand and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and other forage. The area, including Denbury, is 3,002 acres; rateable value, £4,202; the population, including Denbury, in 1901 was 456, and in the ecclesiastical parish, 153.

TORQUAY AND TORMOHAM.

TORQUAY is a fashionable watering place and a municipal borough and market town, in the parish of Tormoham, with two stations (one at Torquay and another at Torre) on the Dartmouth and Torbay branch of the Great Western railway; it is in the Torquay division of the county, hundred of Haytor, petty sessional division of Paignton, union of Newton Abbot, county court district of Newton Abbot and Torquay, rural deanery of Ipplepen, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter, 6½ miles south-east from Newton Abbot, 8½ south from Teignmouth, 9½ east from Totnes, 7½ north-east from Brixham, 12 north-by-east from Dartmouth, 23 south from Exeter, 36 east-by-north from Plymouth & 226 from London, and is delightfully situated on the picturesque activities of the shore of the northern recess of Torbay, with terraces and suburban villas extending so far westward that the old village of Tor and Torquay are now considered as one town. The parish of Tormoham occupies the greater part of a bold promontory, called "Hope's Nose," about three miles in length and two in breadth, which projects eastward in the English Channel and separates Torbay and Babbacombe Bay.

Being open to the sea breezes of the south, and sheltered by lofty hills from the winds of the north, east and west, Torquay is especially desirable as a winter residence for invalids and persons of delicate constitution. The lower part of the town, occupied chiefly by the shops and residences of tradesmen, is built round three sides of the harbour, with the quay and piers in front. The next tier comprises handsome terraces, approached by a winding road at each end, and by steps in other places: the upper tiers are reached in a similar way, and the detached hills on either hand are occupied by ranges of houses and delightful villa residences, towering one above another on the rocky platforms, amid the luxuriant foliage of trees and shrubs which bedeck their gardens, the carriage roads and intervening slopes. The views from the various terraces, including the whole of Torbay, are beautiful in the extreme. The houses are chiefly built of the transition limestone, or marble, of which the cliffs are composed, a material varying in colour, and containing large remains of shells and madrepores, and susceptible, under the hands of the lapidary, of as fine a polish as Italian marble; the increasing influx of visitors to Torquay has caused the population to be materially increased and the number of dwellings has more than doubled.

The climate is extremely mild, so that the myrtle as well as other tender exotics may be cultivated in the open garden, and the former has in some cases here attained to a great age and size. The place is not subject either to great or sudden variations of temperature, is comparatively mild in winter, cool in summer, and remarkably free from thunderstorms.

The first houses at Torquay were built about the end of the last century, for the reception of families of officers and invalids belonging to the Channel fleet, which, during the French war, was often at anchor in Torbay; after this, the reputation of the place for the restoration of invalids rapidly spread.

Torquay has extensive and well sheltered harbours and was (until the disrating of that ancient harbour) within the limits of the port of Dartmouth. The large outer harbour, built by the late Lord Haldon, then Sir Lawrence Palk bart. at an outlay of £70,000, and opened in 1870, was purchased in 1887 by the Local Board, and has since been considerably improved and extended by their successors, the Corporation, at a further cost of upwards of £90,000, and the place is now becoming a favourite yachting station. The imports are chiefly coal, timber, slates and building materials. The exports are chiefly limestone from the adjacent quarries and marble.

The Princess pier and groynes, erected by the Corporation at a cost exceeding £50,000, adjoins the Torbay road and is 1680 feet in length. The foundation stone was laid by H.R.H. Princess Louise, May 6th, 1890, and the pier was opened on July 23rd, 1895, by the Mayor (Ald. Dr. Richardson). From the end of the pier a lovely panoramic view of the town and surrounding districts is obtained. Daily performances are given by the Royal Italian band. The Princess gardens, adjoining the Princess pier, $\frac{3}{4}$ acres in extent, is also the property of the Corporation; in the centre is an elliptical bed with royal devices in floriculture, and a handsome fountain.

A royal charter was granted to the town on the 15th August, 1892, for the incorporation of the town as a municipal borough, superseding the Local Board, which had existed since 1850.

Under the provisions of the "Torquay Borough Extension Act, 1900," Babbacombe, Chelston, Ilisham and St. Mary Church have been added to the borough.

The borough was divided into six wards, but since the extension it has nine wards, and the Corporation consists of nine aldermen and twenty-four councillors, one of whom serves the office of mayor.

A commission of the peace was granted in August, 1893.

The town is well supplied with water, brought from Hennock, 16 miles distant, extensive reservoirs and works having been made by the late Local Board, at a cost exceeding £150,000. The sanitary arrangements are now very good, an efficient system of sewerage having been carried out at a cost of upwards of £70,000.

The Gas works, at some distance from the town, on the Paignton road, were constructed in 1860 by a proprietary company, with a capital of £45,000, to which many additions have since been made, and the authorized capital amounts to £136,250; the works supply the whole of Cockington and Torquay.

St. Saviour's, the parish church of Tormoham and the mother church of Torquay, is an ancient edifice of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south and west porches and an embattled western tower, containing a clock and 3 bells; the first has no legend but is a beautiful casting; the others are respectively dated 1754 and 1673: a screen with remains of a rood loft over the Ridgway Chapel existed in 1822, but is now gone: a fine reredos of carved oak, executed by Hems of Exeter, was erected in 1887, as a memorial to the late Sir William Mulcaster, his wife and sister: in the chancel is a memorial window inserted in 1875 to the Rev. George Collyer Harris M.A. prebendary of Exeter, 10 years curate of Tormoham, and first vicar of St. Luke's; and the monuments include a very fine canopied tomb, with effigy in armour, to Thomas Ridgeway esq. of Torre Abbey and Torwood Manor, father of Sir Thomas Ridgeway kt. Baron Ridgeway (1616), and first Earl of Londonderry of that family (1622); there are also others of Jacobean date to the Cary family: the church was re-pewed and thoroughly repaired in 1849, and in 1874 the chancel was enlarged and a new organ erected at a cost of £700: it now affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1628. The living is a vicarage, with All Saints' chapel, net yearly value £213, in the gift of the Bishop of Exeter, and held since 1900 by the Rev. John Thomas Jacob.

All Saints, a chapel of ease to the parish church, in Bampfylde road, Tor, erected in 1884-90 at a cost of £11,000 is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, and is in the charge of the clergy of the parish church.

On the summit of a hill near, and about 90 feet in height, are remains of the ancient chapel of St. Michael, formerly belonging to Torre abbey; it is a small edifice of stone, about 36 feet long; and there was formerly a small chapel at Torwood, built by Reginald de Mohun in 1251.

St. John the Evangelist's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed November 22nd, 1861, out of Tormoham parish: the church, in Montpelier place, formerly a proprietary chapel, was rebuilt in 1865-71 in the Gothic style, from the designs of the late G. E. Street esq. B.A. and is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel with aisles, clerestoried nave, aisles, baptistery, vestries and a western tower, with turrets at the angles and a pyramidal spire, and contains one bell: the chancel, of two unequal bays, has a groined roof: the rebuilding of the tower was completed in 1884-5, under the direction of Mr. Arthur E. Street, architect, of London, at a cost of £2,271, and in 1890 the morning chapel was refitted by Major Bridson, from designs by Mr. J. D. Sedding, architect, part of the work being executed by Hems, of Exeter: there are 850 sittings. The register dates from the year 1860. The living is a vicarage, net yearly income £52, supplemented by the offertory, in the gift of Richard Mallock esq. and held since 1886 by the Rev. Basil Reginald Airy M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge.

St. Luke's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed October 8th, 1869, out of Tormoham and Upton: the church, in St. Luke's road, erected in 1862, at a cost of £9,000, is a building of local stone in the Early Decorated style, from designs by the late Sir A. W. Blomfield A.R.A. consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and west porches and a tower on the north-west, with spire: there are 950 sittings. The register dates from the year 1862. The living is a vicarage, with St. Michael's chapel, net yearly value £400, including an endowment of £200 from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and held since 1874 by the Rev. William Skinner Boyle M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford, and prebendary of Exeter.

The church of St. Michael, in Market street, erected in 1877, at a cost of £7,000, from designs by J. Pritchard esq. as a chapel of ease to St. Luke's, is an edifice of Paignton stone in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles and north porch, and has 550 sittings. It is served from St. Luke's.

Holy Trinity church, in Torwood street, erected in 1895 at a cost of over £8,000, in place of the church in Meadowfoot road, is a building of stone in the Early English style, from designs by Messrs. Watson and Watson, of Torquay, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, transepts, north and south porches and a massive western tower, with a spire 162 feet high, and containing 8 bells: there are sittings for 800 persons. The register dates from the year 1822. The living is a vicarage, yearly income derived from pew rents &c. and uncertain, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1896 by the Rev. Francis Bishop.

ELLACOMBE is an ecclesiastical parish, formed August 4th, 1868. Christ church is a plain building of stone, consisting of apse, nave, north aisle, south porch and a western tower with spire: there are 850 sittings. The register dates from the year 1868. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1901 by the Rev. John Percy Baker M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge.

The Mission church, on Stentiford's Hill, erected in 1878, at a cost of £400, as an auxiliary to Ellacombe church, is a building of iron and wood, and has 150 sittings.

TORWOOD is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1857. St. Mark's church, in St. Mark's road, erected in 1857, is a cruciform building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with aisles, clerestoried nave, aisles, transepts, south porch and a central tower: a new east window was given in 1891 by Mr. P. S. Drinkwater, an alabaster reredos by the Misses Webb and Slack, and the morning chapel was also fitted up by Miss Baynton, under the direction of Messrs. Fulford and Co. architects, of Exeter: there are a number of memorial windows, given by various families: the organ, erected at a cost of £800, has been rebuilt at a cost of about £500: in 1885 about £1,000 was spent in decorative work and oak stalls for the choir, executed by Hems, of Exeter: there are sittings for 600 persons. The register dates from the year 1857. The living was declared a rectory March 6th, 1868, net yearly value £511, including the rents from certain pews, in the gift of Lord Haldon, and held since 1884 by the Rev. George Herbert Statham M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

UPTON is an ecclesiastical parish, formed July 3rd, 1848. The church of St. Mary Magdalene, standing in Union street, erected on a site given by the late Sir L. V. Palk bart. and consecrated April 12, 1849, is an edifice of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a lofty western tower with spire, 182 feet in height, containing a clock and 8 bells, rehung in 1901, at a cost of £210, when also the spire was repaired and a lightning conductor fixed at a further cost of £140: the late P. Dawson esq. gave £2,000 to the building fund on condition that the sittings should be free and unappropriated for ever: during 1881-2 various structural alterations and improvements were made in the chancel and a new floor of polished Devonshire marble laid on raised arches: the rich chancel screen of marble and the plaques on either side of the chancel are memorials to Mr. A. B. Sheppard and Mrs. Sarah Wilks and Mr. William Kitson; the restoration was carried out from designs by Mr. G. Gilbert Scott R.A. at a total cost, including the organ, of £2,829 19s. 7d.: a reredos was erected and the church renovated internally in 1889 at a cost of £1,300: there are 792 sittings. The register dates from the year 1849. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £191, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Edward Pease Gregg M.A. of Hertford College, Oxford, surrogate, and chaplain to the Torbay Hospital. A rectory house was provided in 1899, by Miss Lavers, of Upton Leigh.

St. James's Mission church, Lower Upton, a chapel of ease to the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, and erected in 1891, is a plain building of limestone consisting of nave only and has sittings for 250 persons. The total cost was £780, of which £500, in addition to site, was given by the late W. Lavers esq. of Upton Leigh.

The Catholic church, dedicated to Our Lady of the Assumption, in Abbey road, erected in 1854, on a site given by the late R. S. S. Cary, of Torre Abbey, at a cost of about £10,000, is a building in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, lady chapel, and a western turret containing one bell, and has a presbytery and day schools attached: the lady chapel and south aisle were added in 1858, mainly by the exertions of the late Rev. Canon Windeyer, formerly priest here, and to whose memory a window was erected in the south aisle by the congregation: the stained east window was given by R. S. S. Cary esq.: the columns of the arcades are of polished Devonshire marble, and the high altar and another in the lady chapel are in part of the same material: the font, also of marble, was given in memory of T. G. E. A. Lloyd, by his sisters: illustrations, in oxidized silver, of "the Stations of the Cross," are placed round the church, which seats about 300 persons. The Society of St. Vincent de Paul, for the relief of the poor, holds a meeting at the presbytery weekly.

The Public Gardens, on the Babbacombe road, comprise about four acres of land, appropriated by the lord of the manor to the use of the public, and are tastefully planted and laid out with gravel walks, forming a pleasant and sheltered promenade. The gardens are maintained by the Corporation.

A regatta takes place yearly in August.

Torre Abbey, situated in the south-western part of the parish, was founded March 25, 1195, by William de Bruere, or Briwere, for canons of the Premonstratensian Order, and dedicated to SS. Saviour and Mary; it was colonized from Welbeck, and the founder endowed it with considerable revenues, afterwards augmented by his son: at the date of its surrender, Feb. 19, 1539, the yearly income was valued at £396 11s. (equal in the present day to about £8,000), and there were then 25 canons, besides Simon Rede, 14th and last abbot. The abbey, with the adjacent estate, was granted, in 1543, to John St. Leger esq. who conveyed it to Sir Hugh Pollard: it subsequently passed to the Seymours, Ridgways and Stawells, the last of whom sold it in 1662 to Sir George Cary knt. an ancestor of the present lord of the manor, Col. Lucius Falkland Brancalione Cary. The ground plan originally comprised a cruciform church, 195 feet in length internally, including the western tower and cloisters on the south side, about 74 feet square, around which the monastic buildings were arranged: each wing of the transept had two eastern chapels, the nave had a north aisle, and there was also a central tower; on the east side of the cloister, but separated from the transept by a slype or passage, was the chapter house, and ranging with it the common house and probably the abbot's lodge; over these ran the dormer (dormitory); the south side was occupied by the frater (refectory) and kitchen, above a vaulted undercroft, and the west by the guest house and prior's lodge, also built over vaulted cellars: of the three gate-houses mentioned by Leland (1549), one, an embattled structure of the 14th century, still remains on the south-west; it has a wide entrance and postern, and retains two of its octagonal angle turrets, and the vaulted roof displays the arms of the abbey and those of Bruere, Mohun and Speke: the only portions of the buildings now above ground are the south and part of the east wall of the presbytery, the walls of the south transept and its chapels; the western piers of the central tower, the west wall of the north transept, and adjoining it, the east end of the aisle; of the chapter house, only the fine west doorway and windows remain: the site is now much overgrown with shrubs and trees: the modern mansion called "Torre Abbey," was erected, according to Westcott (1845), by John Ridgway esq. of Torwood, ancestor of the Earls of Londonderry, and consists of a central block with wings, occupying the site of the refectory and adjacent buildings on the south side of the cloister; the west wing connects itself with the gate-house above mentioned, and its northern arm, inclosing the west side of the cloister, contains a chapel, formed out of the ancient guest house, and has on the west front a staircase tower: about 1874 portions of the mansion were carefully restored to their original condition, under the direction of Mr. Edward Appleton F.R.I.B.A.: the grounds attached to the house adjoin the coast, and are picturesque and well wooded, and afford fine views of the bay and the lofty "tors," or hills, in the neighbourhood: a little distance south-west is a fine tithe barn, 120 feet in length, divided into two portions by a transept and surrounded with buttresses.

In the reign of Henry II. the manor of Tor Moham belonged to William de Bruere, and his younger daughter, Alice, carried it in marriage to the Mohuns, who had a residence here in the 13th century, but afterwards sold the manor to the Ridgways: the Torwood manor estate, comprising Torquay proper, subsequently descended to the Earl of Donegal, whose uncle, Arthur, 4th earl, married Lady Lucy, daughter and co-heiress of Robert (Ridgway), 4th Earl of Londonderry, and was purchased about 1786 by Sir Robert Palk bart. ancestor of its present owner, Lord Haldon. Torwood Manor house, pulled down some years ago, occupied the present site of Torwood terrace, in the garden wall of which is built the ancient granite doorway of the old mansion; the stone window mullions were used in constructing a modern villa.

The parish of Tormoham is chiefly the property of two manor lords, viz. Lord Haldon's representatives and Col. Lucius Falkland Brancalione Cary, but 14 acres belong to the trustees of the late Lord Sinclair.

The area of the borough of Torquay as extended in November, 1900, is 3,879 acres; rateable value, £188,000.

The population of the parish in 1801 was 838; in 1871, 21,657, in 1881 was 24,731, in 1891 was 25,534, and in 1901, 33,610.

The population of the municipal wards in 1891 was:—Ellacombe, 5,623; Strand, 3,728; Torre, 4,066; Torwood, 3,975; Upton, 4,037; Waldon, 4,115.

The population of the municipal wards in 1901 was: Ellacombe, 5,911; Strand, 3,129; Torre, 3,851; Torwood, 3,644; Upton, 4,339; Waldon, 3,576; St. Mary Church, 4,534; Babbacombe, 2,040; Chelston, 2,586.

Population of the ecclesiastical parishes, 1891:—Tormoham, 4,401; Upton, 5,106; St. Luke's, 3,065; Ellacombe, 6,337; St. John the Evangelist, 1,908; St. Mark's, 2,088; Ilsham, 1,563; St. Mary Church-with-Coffinswell, 4,917; Cockington, 2,669; Babbacombe, 1,784; Trinity, 249.

ST. MARY CHURCH is a large parish, near the bold and rugged rocky cliffs of the southern recesses of Babbacombe Bay, divided from Torbay by the promontory of Tor Point, or Hope's Nose, about $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from Torquay, and 1 east from Torre station on the Dartmouth branch of the South Devon section of the Great Western railway, in the Torquay division of the county, hundred of Haytor, petty sessional division of Paignton, union and county court district of Newton Abbot, rural deanery of Ipplepen, archdeaconry of Totnes, and diocese of Exeter.

Under the "Torquay Borough Extension Act, 1900," St. Mary Church—with the exception of Edginswell, and Shipway Collaton, which were transferred to Cockington parish—was incorporated with the Borough, and it now remains a parish for poor law purposes only.

The place is lighted with gas from works at Hele-Cross, the property of the Torquay Corporation, and these works now also supply Hele, Babbacombe and Barton. The parish church of St. Mary is said to have been the earliest in Devon, a tradition strongly confirmed by the fact that its Saxon name, "Saint Marie Cherche," is found in Domesday Book; the present church, rebuilt with the exception of the tower in 1891, is a large edifice of stone in the Early Decorated style, from designs by Mr. S. W. Hugall, architect, consisting of chancel, nave of six bays, with clerestory, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 8 bells, cast and hung in 1880 at a cost of about £800; the clock, which chimes the quarters, was given by the family of the Rev. D. R. Fearon, late vicar, as a memorial to him: the church was consecrated 23rd July, 1861; the total cost of the rebuilding, including the stained windows and other costly decorations, amounted to about £25,000: the screen, given by the late Right Hon. A. J. B. Beresford-Hope P.C., M.P. is constructed of marbles quarried within the area of the parish; Baroness (then Miss) Burdett-Coutts also gave £100 towards the embellishment of the chancel: the tower was restored in 1873-4, at a cost of about £3,500, in memory of Henry Phillpotts D.D. Bishop of Exeter, 1830-60, who resided at Bishopstowe in this parish, and dying September 18, 1869, was buried in the churchyard: in 1892 a new organ chamber and vestries were built and the organ repaired and enlarged at a cost of £1,500: the font, of very Early Norman, or possibly Saxon date, has a circular basin on an octagonal base, the exterior surface of the former is ornamented with carvings of intersecting rings inclosing figures in relief: in 1896 the east end of the south aisle was fitted up by a faculty, with an altar for daily celebrations and evensong: there are 1,000 sittings, 30 of which, at present appropriated, become free on the death of their respective holders. The oldest existing register dates from 1580, and many of the families whose names are found therein continue in the parish; among these are the Waymouths, who trace their descent through five centuries. The living is a vicarage with the chapelry of Offinswell annexed, joint net yearly value £224, with residence and $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and held since 1876 by the Rev. Arthur Bourchier Wrey M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge.

The Free Church at Furrough Cross is a plain building of stone, erected in 1853, at the cost of the late Sir Culling Eardley Eardley bart. of Torquay, and consists of chancel and nave; the Rev. Richard Marriott, minister. The Catholic church, in Priory road, dedicated to Our Lady Help of Christians and St. Denis, is an edifice of stone in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, pentagonal apse, aisles, Lady chapel, crypt, baptistery and a tower with spire 175 feet high; it was built in 1860-70 at the sole cost of the late William John Potts Chatto esq. of the Daison, St. Mary Church, who is buried in the crypt below the Lady chapel: the front of the high altar is ornamented with a carving of "the Last Supper." Connected with the church is a Convent of the Sisters of Penance of the third order of St. Dominic, a guest house for lady boarders, a school for young ladies, and an orphanage for 80 girls.

The Town Hall, erected in 1883, from the designs of G. S. Bridgman esq. of Torquay, is a building of limestone, with dressings of Ham Hill stone, with four rooms on the ground floor, and on the first floor a large room, 62 feet by 32 feet, which is let for concerts, balls, dinners and theatricals. The Constitutional Club is in Hampton View. The Sanitary Hospital, erected by the Torquay Corporation, for the reception of patients suffering from infectious diseases, occupies a site on the Newton road, and in Cockington parish: it was given by the late William Kitson esq. of Hengrave, who laid the foundation stone in 1882: the building is of red brick, from designs by Mrs. Ernest Turner, of London, and consists of two wards, arranged and furnished throughout according to the latest scientific principles; attached are two residences for the medical officers, curator and nurses.

The lofty cliffs, near Babbacombe beach, are of beautiful limestone, which is used for building and, when burnt into lime, for agricultural purposes. At Petitor, Barton, and other parts of the parish there are also large quantities of marble rock; these marbles have always been held in high esteem for their exceptional beauty, a fact to which the old mansions in the district amply testify; the quarries are now worked by Messrs. A. W. Blackler and Son, of the Royal Marble Works, which have now been established for more than 150 years for the manufacture of tables, chimney-pieces, urns, vases and other works of art.

The manor of Combe-Pafford belongs to Lord Haldon and that of St. Mary Church to Col. Lucius F. B. Cary J.P. of Babbacombe. The area of the civil parish, 2,656 acres of land and 17 of foreshore; rateable value, £26,435; the population in 1891 was 6,846.

BARTON is a hamlet and scattered village, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from St. Mary Church and about 3 miles north from Torquay. It is now being laid out for building purposes, and has been thoroughly drained and furnished with a supply of water. The Mission church of St. Augustine, at Barton, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel and nave, and seating about 100 persons: it serves also for a Sunday school and infants' day school. There are Wesleyan and Baptist chapels, each seating about 50 persons. Immense beds of limestone are found here. The Torquay Cemetery, on the Barton road, was laid out by a company formed in 1852, with a capital of £8,000, in £10 shares, and comprises $16\frac{1}{2}$ acres of ground, with two mortuary chapels, in the Gothic style, built in 1852-3 at a cost of about £1,000, and a lodge. Barton Hall, in the adjoining parish of Kingskerswell, is the residence of Hercules Edwin Brown esq. J.P. lord of the manor of Kingskerswell and Dacombe: the mansion, built in 1838-40 and rebuilt in 1862, after its destruction by fire, is picturesquely situated in well-wooded grounds and commands a limited view seaward.

COMBE-PAFFORD is a hamlet, consisting of a few labourers' cottages, half a mile north from St. Mary Church.

SHIPHAY-COLLATON hamlet, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles west from St. Mary Church, and EDGINSWELL, 2 miles west, were both, under the "Torquay Borough Extension Act" of November 9th, 1900, transferred to the parish of Cockington, which see (page 143).

WATCOMBE, on the sea-coast, and a resort for picnic parties during the summer season, is in the civil parish of St. Mary Church, from which it is about a mile north and abounds with the most delightfully picturesque scenery. The late Mr. Isambard Brunel, the eminent engineer, selected this beautiful spot for a residence, and planted it with rare and ornamental trees and shrubs, subsequent to his death, Watcombe Park, after passing through various hands, ultimately came into the possession of Lt.-Col. Charles Ichabod Wright, and many internal structural alterations were then made in the mansion under the superintendence of Mr. Watson, of Torquay: the house commands a magnificent view of the adjacent country, and a distant prospect of Torbay; the grounds, which are very extensive, contain a choice collection of "coniferae" and various kinds of thorns from nearly every part of the world. A valuable bed of terra-cotta clay, found on the property of G. J. Allen esq. is now being worked by a company called the Watcombe Pottery Co. (Messrs. Hexter and Co. of Exeter, being the proprietors), who have erected extensive works and have established a high reputation for the artistic beauty of their ware: the show-room at Watcombe contains many charming specimens of this local manufacture.

ILSHAM and BABBACOMBE are ecclesiastical parishes formed out of St. Mary Church, and now form part of the municipal borough of Torquay.

BABBACOMBE was formed into an ecclesiastical parish May 15, 1868, from St. Mary Church civil parish, and under the provisions of the "Torquay Borough Extension Act, 1900," was incorporated with the Borough. It is on the coast of Babbacombe Bay, about 2 miles south-east from Torre station on the Dartmouth branch of the Great Western railway and about the same distance north from Torquay, and 5 south-east from Newton Abbot, in the Torquay division of the county, Haytor hundred, Paignton petty sessional division, Newton Abbot union and county court district, rural deanery of Ipplepen, archdeaconry of Totnes, and diocese of Exeter. The church of All Saints, erected in 1873, from designs by Mr. W. Butterfield, architect, is a building of local stone, with Bath stone dressings, in the Gothic style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south-west porch and a western tower with spire containing 8 bells: the pulpit, font and chancel pavement are wholly of marble, obtained chiefly from the neighbourhood: the entire cost of the tower and spire was defrayed by Sampson Hanbury esq. of Bishopstowe, and the bells were given by the late Mrs. Hanbury, to whose memory a brass has been placed in the church: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1867. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £467, with half an acre of glebe, in the gift of the vicar of St. Mary Church, and held since 1867 by the Rev. John Hewett M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. Here is a Primitive Methodist chapel. St. Anne's Hall, erected in 1884, at the cost of Miss Bertie Mathew, of Babbacombe, is a building of limestone and Ham Hill stone dressings, in the Early Decorated style, from designs by Mr. R. M. Fulford, architect, of Exeter, and comprises a hall 50 by 27 feet and several other large rooms. The Hospital for children suffering from chronic and incurable diseases, on Rose hill, Babbacombe road, was opened in October, 1888, and is a small building containing 12 beds, 4 of which are endowed and named after their respective donors. There are bathing machines on the beach and a coastguard station. A little south-east of Babbacombe, and about a mile east from Torquay, is Kent's Hole, a large cavern, which has been explored for about 800 feet; bones of the elephant, rhinoceros, hyæna and bear have been found in it: the first discovery of fossil remains was made in 1824, but for some years no importance was attached to the fact: in 1846 the Torquay Natural History Society undertook some investigations, and in 1865 a thorough examination of the cave was made under the auspices of the British Association. Anstey's Cove, about half a mile from Kent's Hole, is also a very romantic spot, with a shingle beach, sheltered by towering limestone cliffs mantled with ivy. Bishopstowe, the residence of Mrs. Hanbury, is a beautiful mansion in the Italian style, built in 1841-2, under the superintendence of Mr. Gribble, architect, of Torquay, by the late Dr. Phillpotts, bishop of Exeter, who long resided and died there: the grounds in front rise in three terraces connected by flights of steps; on the lower terrace is a fountain, and both the mansion and grounds afford very pleasing views. There are very good villas and marine cottages, most of which overlook Babbacombe Bay. Cary Park, in this parish, the generous gift of the late Robt. S. S. Cary esq. was dedicated to the public for ever in the 60th year of the reign of the late Queen Victoria, 1897: adjoining are lawn tennis grounds and a bowling green, added by the Corporation in 1901. The population in 1891 was 1,643.

ILSHAM is an ecclesiastical parish formed March 5, 1880, as a distinct chapelry out of Torwood parish, and under the "Torquay Borough Extension Act of 1900" was incorporated with the Borough. It is about 1 mile east from Torquay, in the Torquay division of the county, Haytor hundred, Paignton petty sessional division, Newton Abbot union and county court district, rural deanery of Ipplepen, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Matthias, erected in 1858, is an edifice of local stone with Bath stone dressings, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, aisles, north porch and a small tower on the north side containing a clock and one bell: the church was considerably enlarged and reseated in 1894 at a cost, including a new organ, of over £10,000, under the direction of the late Mr. John L. Pearson R.A., F.S.A.: the stalls, screens and seating being executed by Hems, of Exeter; it will seat 700 persons. The register dates from the year 1858. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £30, derived from Queen Anne's Bounty, and an uncertain sum from pew rents, in the gift of and held since 1879 by the Rev. Thomas Nash Hicks M.A. of Brasenose College, Oxford, who resides at Ansty's Lea, Babbacombe road, Ilisham. The population in 1891 was 1,817. Letters through Torquay CHELSTON, formerly a part of Cockington parish, is now included in the borough. St. Matthew's Church, in Park road, Chelston, served from Cockington, opened in 1896 but not yet completed, is a building of local red rock, with dressings of Doulton stone, in the Early English style, from the designs of Mr. C. A. Nicholson, architect, of London: the portion erected consists of nave and aisles only: the total estimated cost amounts to £7,000, of which £5,000 has been raised by public subscription: the ground was given by the late Richard Mallock esq. J.P. Parish Room buildings, opened in 1898, cost £1,150. There is a Wesleyan chapel in Old Mill road, Chelston. Chelston Mission Hall, Old Mill road, was erected by the Dowager Countess of Castlestuart; the services are undenominational and are conducted by Mr. W. Wright. The People's Mission Hall, Innerbrook road, Chelston, was erected in 1897; the services are conducted by Mr. Levi Powell.

National School, Old Mill road, erected in 1892, & since enlarged, for 360 children; average attendance, 295; Alfred Cowling, master; Miss Edith Elizabeth Clarke, mistress

BLACK TORRINGTON, see page 81.

TORRINGTON (GREAT) is a municipal borough, head of a union, county court district and petty sessional division, market town and parish, on the Torridge, here crossed by three bridges, at points respectively south-east, south-west and north-west of the town, and is at the junction of the roads from Barnstaple and South Molton to Tavistock and Plymouth; it is the terminus of a branch of the London and South Western railway, opened in 1872, 7 miles south-south-east from Bideford, 10 south-by-west from Barnstaple, 18 north from Okehampton and 225 from London, and is in the Northern division of the county, Fremington hundred, rural deanery of Torrington, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The town is beautifully situated on the top of a hill 300 feet high, from which an extensive view is obtained, overlooking the Torridge; is lighted with gas from works in Gas lane, and supplied with water from a reservoir at Blackerton, 2 miles from the town; waterworks were built in 1871, and in 1901 were considerably enlarged by the Corporation. A canal, nearly 5 miles long, was constructed by the late Lord Rolle, in 1823, from the town to the navigable part of the Torridge below Wear Gifford; at Beam there is a lofty stone aqueduct of 5 arches, but portions having been filled in it is not now in use. A part of this canal, between the station and the town mills, was about 1893 converted into a road. The road to Little Torrington was made by Lord Rolle in 1842. The borough sent members to Parliament in the reigns of Ed. I., II. and III. but was relieved of that burden at its own request. Torrington was incorporated by three charters, granted by Mary, James I. and James II. of which copies only now exist: the Corporation, under the provisions of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1835, consists of a mayor, four aldermen and eleven councillors. The borough has a commission of the peace, granted July 7th, 1893. The church of St. Michael is an edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, 57 feet in height, with pinnacles and a lofty spire, and containing a clock and 6 bells, all cast by Abraham Rudhall, of Gloucester, in 1716, weight of tenor 14 cwt. 3 qrs.: the present tower was rebuilt in 1830; the old tower, a structure of peculiar shape, stood at the principal entrance on the south side, and in the year 1839 the top of the spire was blown down by a violent hurricane, and, falling through the roof, did considerable damage: the east window is stained, and in the south aisle is one erected by J. C. Moore-Stevens esq. of Winscott, at a cost of £150: the reredos, in sculptured stone, represents the Crucifixion, and is by Hems, of Exeter: the west window, given by the Palmer family, cost £100; a window in the south side was placed to the memory of Mary Colby by her children, Frederic, Ellen and Reynolds, in 1863, and another in the north aisle was given by the representatives of the late Mr. Callon, of Torrington; in the transept is a window inserted by the Rev. Hugh Fowler, in the memory of his father, Thomas Fowler, who died in 1843; two other memorial windows were placed in 1891: there are monuments to the Stevens family with a Latin inscription, dated 1676, and to John Palmer, d. 1770: the carved oak pulpit is that in which John Howe M.A. the celebrated Nonconformist divine, preached while vicar of this parish, until his ejection in 1662: the organ was presented in 1809 by the late Lord Rolle, and in 1892 a handsome brass cross was given by Messrs. Yeo and Beamore: under the bible desk are these words, carved in the wood—"Hearse God's word": on a stone, let into the wall outside the church, is the following inscription:—"The church was blown up with powder, Feb. 16th, Ano. 1645 and rebuilt Ao. 1651": the church was restored in 1864 and has 1,200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1616, and contains a number of entries relating to the burials of officers and soldiers slain during the civil war. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £380, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, and held since 1894 by the Rev. Frank Emlyn Jones M.A. of that House, and surrogate. There is a Wesleyan chapel at Windy Cross, holding 380 persons, with a Sunday school attached. Howe Congregational church, Castle street, is a large building of stone in the Gothic style, with residence for the minister attached; the church has 350 sittings. The Baptist chapel, New street, is a building of stone, with Sunday school attached, and will hold 400 persons. The Bible Christian chapel, in South street, will seat 300 persons; there is a Sunday school attached, with a library of about 200 volumes, and a residence for the minister. The Cemetery, six acres in extent, at the western extremity of the town, was laid out and planted with shrubs in 1855, and has a lodge and two mortuary chapels; it is now under the control of the Corporation. The Town Hall is a structure of brick, rebuilt in 1860. The municipal insignia include a pair of silver parcel-gilt maces, 22½ inches long, with ornate bands on the shafts, crested heads with royal badges, and scroll flanges on the grip, and date from the reign of James I.; one of these, partly destroyed by a fire at the mayor's house, July 26, 1876, was restored in the same year; there is also a pair of smaller maces, 10½ inches in length, both of silver and exactly similar, the head of each is crested, and has on the side a fleur-de-lis between the letters I. R. with the date 1687 below; one of these is a facsimile of one destroyed by the fire mentioned above; the mayor's chain, presented in 1885 by Gabriel Fisher esq. then mayor, is of gold and consists of 17 tablets, bearing the names of successive mayors from 1736, united by plain links: the centre link incloses the monogram of the donor, with miniature models of the town maces, and pendent from this is the oval badge, presented by the late George Doe esq. then town clerk, and displaying the borough arms, "arg. 2 bars wavy, in chief a fleur-de-lis, sa. all within a bordure engrailed of the last"; the town seal, of the 15th century, bears a fleur-de-lis between two letters "T" and has the legend:—"Sigillu' coc. ville de: Cbipyngrton: com: debon:" there is also a silver badge, worn by the town beadle and dated 1690.

In High street stands a drinking fountain of stone and granite, presented to the town by the Hon. Mark G. K. Rolle in August, 1870; it is 18 feet high and approached by two rows of steps, and in the upper portion is a clock. There are three banks, a Mutual Improvement Society, and a Conservative Working Men's Association, with a reading room and a library of about 600 volumes, in South street, and a Free Institute, in Halsdon terrace, opened in 1891, with a library of 700 volumes and reading and billiard rooms. The North Devon Freehold Land Society has its offices here. The Market House for meat, vegetables and poultry, erected by the Town Council in 1842, is a spacious building, and includes a large hall, let for lectures and exhibitions: in 1892 the central roof was covered in with glass, the expense being chiefly defrayed by the Hon. Mark G. K. Rolle. The market is held on Saturday and a sale of cattle, conducted by Henry Slee and Sons and Mr. G. D. Copp, is held on the last Saturday in every month; the market, which belongs to the Corporation, was in 1893 transferred to the New Public Cattle Market, erected in School lane, at a cost of £1,000. Annual fairs are held in the town on the third Saturday in March (Great Fair) and the first Thursday in May; on this day the Premium cattle show is held, and the second Thursday and two following days in October. Fairs were held here as early as 1226, but all the borough records were destroyed by fire in 1724. The manufacture of silk gloves is largely carried on, about 500 persons being employed in factories and in their own houses; the chief factory is that of Mr. William Vaughan, which is spacious and well-ventilated. Messrs. John Jackson and Mrs. Rudd also have glove factories here. There is also a large leather dressing establishment, carried on by Messrs. N. G. & M. Chapple, and the Torrridge Vale butter factory of Messrs. R. Sandford and Son. The Fire Brigade, consisting of 30 men and one superintendent, has three manual engines, and is otherwise efficiently equipped. At Torrington is stationed the A squadron of the Royal North Devon Yeomanry Cavalry (Imperial Yeomanry) and the F Co. of the 4th Volunteer Battalion, Devonshire Regiment; the drill hall and armoury is in Calf street. The kennels of the Stevenstone fox hounds are at Rotherham Bridge, near here. There are almshouses for 22 poor persons, 6 being in the gift of the Hon. Mark G. K. Rolle, and the remaining 16 with the trustees of the Town and Alms Land Charities.

The Cottage Hospital was opened in October, 1897; the number of patients admitted in 1900 was 33, making a total of 84 since the Hospital was opened.

At the west end of the town is an extensive tract of common land, which has been laid out with walks made and furnished with seats as a public recreation ground, and part has been reserved for various kinds of outdoor sports; the whole is vested in a body of conservators under the "Great Torrington Commons Act, 1889."

In the sixth year of Richard I.'s reign the common land was given for the benefit of the poor by William FitzRobert, baron of Torrington.

Of Torrridge Castle, erected by Richard de Merton in 1340, only a portion of the chapel, taken down in 1780 and now converted into a school, remains, and that part of Castle hill is now called "Barley Grove." Near the spot where the castle formerly stood is a column, erected in 1816 to commemorate the battle of Waterloo, fought June 18th, 1815. In 1484 the sessions were held at Torrington, at which the Marquis of Dorset, Sir Edward Courtenay, Bishop Peter Courtenay and about 500 others, were indicted for treason against Richard III. and outlawed, and Sir Thomas St. Ledger, who had married the king's sister, and Thomas Rayne esq. being found guilty of high treason, were beheaded at Exeter. The Lady Margaret Countess of Richmond and mother of Henry VII. resided much at Torrington in the old manor house, which she afterwards gave as a residence for the clergyman of the parish, whose parsonage was formerly at Priestacott; in 1590 the sessions were held here in consequence of the prevalence of the plague at Exeter, and Torrington, probably in consequence, also suffered from the same infection the following year. In 1643 the Parliamentary forces, advancing on this place from Bideford, were totally defeated by Colonel Digby. In February, 1646, Lord Hopton, having stationed his army at Torrington, which he fortified and barricaded, was attacked by Sir Thomas Fairfax, advancing from Chulmleigh by way of Stevenstone, on the night of the 16th, and after a severe action the royalists were completely worsted and eight colours taken, besides numerous prisoners, 200 of whom, being confined in the church, were destroyed, together with the guard, by the blowing up of nearly 80 barrels of powder, which had been deposited there by Lord Hopton, and very little of the church beyond the vestry escaped the effects of the explosion. In 1665 Tristram Arcsott esq. gave the hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, founded at Taddipport by Lady Anne Butler, to Great Torrington and to the churchwardens of Little Torrington.

Torrington gave the title of Earl in 1660 to the celebrated General Monk, afterwards Duke of Albemarle, but it became extinct on the death of his son, Christopher, in 1687; in 1689 Admiral Arthur Herbert was created Baron Torbay and Earl of Torrington, which title became again extinct on his death, April 14, 1716; in the same year Thomas, second son of Francis (Newport), 1st earl of Bradford, was created Baron Torrington, but died in 1719 without issue; in 1721 Admiral Sir George Byng bart. was created Baron Byng, Viscount Torrington, and these titles are still enjoyed by his descendant, the present and 8th viscount. The parish contains the manors of Great Torrington and Norwood, the manorial rights of which, under the "Great Torrington Commons Act, 1889," are now vested in a board of conservators, in trust for the inhabitants. The Hon. Mark George

Kerr Rolle and the town trustees are the principal landowners. The area of the parish and municipal borough is 3,575 acres of land and 17 of water; rateable value, £9,715; the population in 1891 was 3,436; including 55 officers and inmates in the workhouse, and in 1901 was 3,241.

LITTLE TORRINGTON is a parish and village, near the river Torridge, which is reached by two bridges of 3 arches, each leading to Great Torrington, and is 3 miles south from Torrington terminal station of a branch of the London and South Western railway, in the Northern division of the county, Shebbear hundred, Torrington petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Torrington, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Giles is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, 67 feet in height, containing 5 bells, all dated 1804; weight of tenor, 11 cwt.: there is an ancient brass to Jane, wife of Peter Phesant esq. attorney-general in the Northern parts to Queen Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Vincent Fulnetbie, and mother-in-law to John Phippes D.D. rector of Little Torrington; and modern brasses to Walter Stuart Stevens Haworth, lieut. 60th Rifles, who died 13th Feb. 1881, at Newcastle, Natal, of wounds received in the battle of Ingogo, February 4th preceding; to Capt. John Stevens Guille, d. 1887, and to Lieut. Basil Eric Cummings, who died of enteric fever at Deelfontein, South Africa, 9 May, 1900 and Major H. S. Le M. Guille R.A. who died of wounds 9 May, 1900, while in action at Warrenton, South Africa; and there are others to two sons of Capt. Scott of "Smytham," one of whom met his death by an unfortunate mistake of a sentry at Esquimalt, British Columbia: in the church are also memorials to R. Coplestone esq. of Woodlands, in this parish, ob. Oct. 23rd, 1617; the Rev. Peter Fisher, rector, Jane, his wife, and John Fisher; and to the Rev. Peter Glubb, rector here nearly 50 years, 1852; and Anne, his wife: there is an ancient stone font and three stained windows: an organ was erected in 1887, at a cost of £125: with the exception of the tower, porch and part of the west wall, the edifice was partially rebuilt in 1857, when the chancel was enlarged and the Stevens aisle rebuilt by Mrs. Sophia Stevens, widow of Thomas Stevens esq. of Cross, Vielstone and Winscott: the nave and south aisle were restored by the parishioners: the chancel has since been decorated, a new Holy table provided and an alabaster and oak reredos erected, the whole forming a memorial to the late Rev. George de Carteret Guille, rector here 1853-94, and to his wife: the silver flagon, paten and almsdish were given in 1753 by Christiana Maria, widow of Henry Stevens esq. of Cross, and sister of Henry, 1st Baron Rolle; the chalice is of older date: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1662. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £330, with residence and 44 acres of glebe, in the gift of the trustees, and held since 1894 by the Rev.

Thomas MacClelland B.D. of Trinity College, Dublin. There is a Wesleyan chapel at Five Lane End. Cross, the residence of Lt.-Col. Richard Arthur Moore-Stevens M.A., J.P. is the property of the Rev. Hubert George de Carteret Stevens-Guille M.A. and Smytham, the residence of Capt. Osmund W. Scott, is the property of Mrs. Ffolkes. The Rev. H. G. de C. Stevens-Guille, who owns the manor, Mrs. Ffolkes, the Hon. Mark George Kerr Rolle and J. C. Moore-Stevens esq. of Winscott, are chief landowners. The soil is friable; subsoil, stone and clay. The chief crops are cereals. The area is 3,112 acres of land and 28 of water; rateable value, £2,669; the population in 1901 was 407.

Post Office.—William Broad, sub-postmaster. Letters through Torrington arrive at 8.30 a.m.; dispatched at 5.30 p.m. Postal orders are issued here, but not paid. Torrington, 3 miles distant, is the nearest money order & telegraph office.

Wall Letter Box, Gribble, cleared at 5.15 p.m.

TADDIPORT is a hamlet, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north, on the south bank of the river Torridge, which is here crossed by a bridge of three arches, leading to Torrington.

The hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, founded here about the 13th century, was given in 1665 by Tristram Arscott esq. to Great Torrington and the churchwardens of Little Torrington for the relief of the poor, and the lands now known as "Magdalen Lands" were anciently part of the endowment of this hospital, which was originally a lazaret, or asylum for lepers; these lands now consist of two fields, comprising 8 acres, several gardens and 13 cottages, let for about £34 yearly.

The chapel of St. Mary Magdalen, formerly attached to the hospital, was founded by the ancestors of John Sentleger (St. Leger) in 1345, and is a small building about 30 feet in length by 11 feet wide, with a transept, and a western tower 5 feet square, containing one bell, dated 1654: a new east window has been placed in the chapel, but one of the old windows with wooden tracery lingers still. Divine service is held here once or twice on Sundays. There is an endowment towards the maintenance of the chapel and its services of £12 5s. per annum, this endowment forming a part of the Magdalen charity, the residue of which is distributed among the poor of Great and Little Torrington.

Hart's charity of £7 is distributed to the poor at Christmas by four trustees.

TOTNES,

WITH THE SUBURB OF BRIDGETOWN.

TOTNES is an ancient municipal borough and market town, head of a union and county court district, in the Southern division of the county, and hundred of Coleridge, petty sessional division of Stanborough and Coleridge, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter, and is picturesquely situated on the western bank of the river Dart, on the opposite bank of which, and formerly in the parish of Berry Pomeroy and hundred of Stanborough, is Bridgetown, a handsome suburb of the town, added to the borough by the "Municipal Corporations Act of 1885," and now, under the provisions of section 36 of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), included in the parish of Totnes. Totnes has a station on the Great Western railway, with extensions to the quay, 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles from London via Bristol and Exeter, and 196 by the old coach road, 24 east-by-north from Plymouth, 23 south-by-west from Exeter, 9 west-south-west from Torquay, 10 north-west-by-west from Dartmouth and 5 from Paignton. The line from Totnes to Ashburton, which follows the valley of the river Dart, thus connecting the towns upon its banks, here joins the Great Western system, the stations and distances being:—Staverton, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles; Buckfastleigh, 7; Ashburton, 9 $\frac{1}{2}$.

The town is situated in the fruitful district called the South Hams, or garden of Devonshire, which abounds in rich pastures, meadows, corn fields and orchards, and being placed on a hill, enjoys a remarkably pure atmosphere: the main street, which rises from the margin of the river Dart, is about three-quarters of a mile in length, and is continued to the summit of the steep acclivity, passing along the brow of the hill and commanding a fine view of the valley and the windings of the river. The upper stories of many of the houses in High street project beyond the lower ones, and, being supported on columns, form spacious covered piazzas for foot passengers. The fine scenery of the valley of the Dart and the beauty of the surrounding country will always secure for Totnes and its neighbourhood a good resident population and a continual influx of visitors.

The town is connected with its suburb of Bridgetown by a stone bridge of three arches, built in 1828, at a cost of £12,000, the tolls on which were abolished November 1st, 1881; steps descend from the bridge to a small island, which was laid out in walks and planted with trees and shrubs for the use of the public, at the expense of the late Duke of Somerset.

In ancient records Totnes is called Totton (a contraction for Tottonia), Totonie and Totneis. The Roman road or Fosseway, which traversed this county into Somerset, and thence to other parts of the kingdom, began here.

King John, in 1205, granted the burgesses a charter, afterwards confirmed and extended by Edward I. Henry VII. and other monarchs. A charter was also granted by Elizabeth, 31 Aug. 1596, under which the Corporation consisted of a mayor, a recorder, fourteen burgher-masters, councillors and an indefinite number of burgesses, including a select body called "The Twenty-men," the mayor, recorder and ex-mayor being justices of the peace for the borough and parish; this charter continued in force until the passing of the "Municipal Corporations Act of 1835" (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76), under which the Corporation consists of a mayor, four aldermen and twelve councillors. Under the "Public Health Act of 1875" (38 and 39 Vict. c. 55), the Corporation have the sole control in all matters relating to local government. The 500th annual election of a mayor took place Nov. 9, 1876. A commission of the peace has been granted, but the borough has now neither recorder nor quarter sessions. The municipal borough comprises the whole of the parish of Totnes and the manor of Bridgetown, formerly in the parish of Berry Pomeroy, the latter being added to it by the "Municipal Corporations Act of 1835."

Totnes enjoyed the privilege of sending two members to the House of Commons from 1295 to the passing of the Reform Act of 1867 (30 and 31 Vict. c. 102), by which it was disfranchised.

The commissioners of the river Dart have greatly improved the navigation, upon which they have expended large sums of money since 1833: vessels of 200 tons burthen can now come up to the wharves near the bridge. The supply of water for the inhabitants, which is abundant and of excellent quality, is obtained from the Broom-borough estate, the proprietor of which, centuries ago, gave this right to the town of Totnes: two reservoirs were constructed near the town about the year 1865, and a main laid throughout the principal streets of the borough, and thence across the bridge to supply Bridgetown; an additional supply has been recently obtained from Bowden, and new reservoirs built at Bridgetown and Bowden. The Gas Works, near the Grove, are the property of a company.

The earliest notice of the existence of a church in Totnes is in a charter of Judhel de Totonais (a Norman baron, to whom the Conqueror granted the borough), by which he grants the church, referred to in the charter as "ecclesiam Sancte Marie de Toteneo," to the great Benedictine abbey of SS. Sergius and Bacchus, at Angers. This church appears to have been rebuilt and consecrated by Bishop Bronescombe in 1259; it was again rebuilt about 200 years afterwards, Bishop Lacy in 1432 granting an indulgence of 40 days to all who contributed to the work.

The existing church of St. Mary is a fine building of stone in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, large south porch with parvise, and a lofty tower with rich buttresses and octagonal pinnacles, containing 8 bells, all cast in 1732, except the fifth and tenor, which were recast by John Pender esq. M.P. for Totnes in 1863; the fourth bell was recast in 1897 at the expense of Alderman T. C. Kellock, on the occasion of his being for the fourth time mayor, and the remainder were rehung by public subscription: in the south wall of the chancel is a hagioscope and on the north side a fine rood turret with stone staircase leading to the rood loft; in the base of the turret are the remains of two piscinæ: the chancel is inclosed by a very fine stone rood screen and two parclose screens, erected, it would appear, in 38 Henry VI. (1459-60), when the Corporation (who up to the year 1836 had the control of the church) made an order that the chancel should be divided from the church with freestone, as the cathedral church at Exeter was; this screen, which far exceeds that of Exeter in beauty and elaborate detail, is 60 feet in length, and is rich in tracery, niches and tabernacle work, but is grained on the west side only: the parclose screens exhibit designs of rather unusual character: the whole was restored by the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott R.A. and his sons: the Corporation stalls, which are handsomely carved, were erected in 1636, and stood in front of the screen; they now face the entrance transept: in the south aisle are the remains of a Perpendicular tomb to Walter Smith, ob. 1555: under the tower arch is a marble monument with kneeling effigies to Christopher Blackhall, ob. 1635, and his four wives, which formerly stood on the south side of the chancel, but was moved during the restoration to its present position: over the outer doorway of the south porch are three mutilated shields, of which the uppermost has the appearance of being the town arms: the inner doorway has over it the remains of a saint's niche and a shield with the arms of Edmund Lacy, Bishop of Exeter (1420-75): in the parvise over the south entrance are stored about 300 volumes of books, which originally formed the lecturer's or preacher's library; these were in part purchased with sums of money given or left for the purpose or were gifts made in the 17th century: there is also a stone pulpit, enriched with tracery and shields of arms, and an ancient Bible and prayer book, presented in 1690 for the use of the mayor by Lady Anne Seymour, relict of Sir Edward Seymour, of Berry Castle, and contains an inscription signed by her: a reredos of carved oak was erected about 1883, by T. C. Kellock esq. of Highfield, as a memorial to his wife, her sister and her mother, Mrs. Plumer: a massive brass lectern has been given by Mr. Roberts in memory of the Rev. Jas. Walrod Burroughs M.A. vicar 1838-88: new east and west windows have also been inserted: about half way up the tower are three niches containing figures, the centre figure being supposed to represent Bishop Lacy, and under it in raised letters are the words, "I made this tore"; in the niche on the right hand side is a robed figure, which may possibly represent Prior Stoke, of the Priory of St. Mary, Totnes, who subscribed £10 towards the erection of the tower; the figure on the left, which is much dilapidated, appears to be that of a soldier with crossed legs: at the east end of the church, in the yard, is a large buttress pierced by an archway, the origin and purpose of which formed the subject of much discussion in "Notes and Queries" for 1850; but the buttress has lately been much altered: the interior of the building has been restored since 1886 in accordance with the designs of the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott R.A.: the church was re-opened January 30, 1889, after being again restored at a cost of £15,000, chiefly defrayed by Mrs. Roberts, of London, a native of Totnes, to whom a memorial window has since been erected: the organ was restored and placed in the north chapel in 1896. The register dates from the year 1557. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £260, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Exeter, and held since 1893 by the Rev. Thomas Henry Elliott M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin and surrogate; the rectorial tithes and glebe, 74 acres, formerly belonged to Totnes Priory, but are now the property of the Duke of Somerset; only 693 acres are tithable and pay a yearly tithe of £280.

The church of St. John the Evangelist, BRIDGETOWN, a chapel of ease to the parish church of Berry Pomeroy, was consecrated by the Bishop of Exeter in July, 1888, and is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave and a tower at the north-west angle with pinnacles, containing a clock and one bell: it was built in 1832 by the late Duke of Somerset K.G., P.C. for that part of Berry Pomeroy parish which forms a suburb of and is within the borough of Totnes: there are sittings for about 400 persons. The register of baptisms and burials dates from 1840.

At Follaton House, the seat of S. E. G. Cary esq. J.P. there is a Catholic chapel, attached to and served from Buckfast Abbey.

The Baptist chapel, in Fore street, erected in 1877, is a plain edifice of stone; the Baptist chapel in Plymouth road was erected in 1866. The Congregational chapel is in Station road; a new Wesleyan chapel in Fore street is now (1901) in course of erection, and is a building of granite with stone dressings and intended to seat 350 persons.

The Cemetery, in the Plymouth road, formed in 1856, extends over an area of 3 acres, and has a mortuary chapel; it is under the control of the Corporation.

The Fire Engine Station, in High street, erected in 1900, has one steamer and one manual engine, with the usual life-saving appliance; the brigade consists of 12 men and a captain.

The Guildhall, standing on the north side of the church, was formerly a portion of the priory of St. Mary: in the main hall are preserved the old stocks; here also is a large oil painting by William Brockedon, a native of Totnes, representing a scene from the poems of Ossian. The list of mayors is complete from 1377 to the present time.

The municipal insignia include two maces, a mayor's chain and badge and borough and mayoral seals. The maces, of silver-gilt, and 3 feet in length, form a pair, and are alike in every respect, the design being somewhat unique:

the shafts, which take the baluster shape, are much enriched with projecting bands and knops, highly ornamented; round the head and within four compartments inclosed by conventional foliage, appear the borough arms and the national emblems crowned: the circlet bears crosses and fleur-de-lis alternately and from the former rise the arches of the crown; these maces are traditionally said to have been presented to the town by Sir Richard Lloyd kt. M.P. for Totnes, 1754-9, and subsequently a Baron of the Exchequer. The mayor's chain and badge, provided by public subscription, were presented to the Corporation in 1875; the chain, of gold, 41 inches in length, consists of links bearing shields, each surmounted by a civic crown; the centre link is flanked on either side by a mace and from it depends the badge displaying the borough arms wrought in gold and enamel: shoulder links were recently added, one bearing the arms of the ancient priory, and the other the arms of the Duke of Somerset: the borough seal, dating from the 15th century, presents a triple-towered gateway, between two keys erect, all within a legend: the mayor's seal is similar, but of smaller size, and there exists the matrix of a seal finely executed and of a date earlier than either of these: the Corporation also possess a loving cup of silver, about 9 inches in height, said to have been presented by Sir Edward Giles kt. M.P. for Totnes, 1620-1 and subsequently, but the hall marks indicate the date 1693-4: the mayor and ex-mayor wear robes of scarlet cloth trimmed with purple velvet.

The Market House was erected in 1848 at a cost of about £12,000. The weekly market is held on Saturday at 3 p.m. and is abundantly supplied with all kinds of provisions. Markets for the sale of cattle are held on the 1st Tuesday in every month, and on the 3rd Tuesday, except in May and October. The annual fairs are on May 12th and October 28th, when those dates fall on a Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, and when they do not, on the following Tuesday. Here is an extensive brewery (the property of Messrs. Walter and Phillips) and a cider factory, carried on by Messrs. John Symons and Co. Limited. The imports are chiefly coal, culm and timber, and the exports are corn, cider and other agricultural produce.

The South Devon subscription library, established in 1810, is at 12 High street, and contains over 5,000 volumes, many being works of reference; it is a proprietary library vested in trustees and managed by a committee of trustees and subscribers.

There are branches of the Devon and Cornwall Bank, Fore street, and the National Provincial and Naval Bank in High street, and an agency of the Devon and Exeter Savings Bank.

The Commercial hotel, High street, The Seven Stars hotel, on The Plains, and The Seymour hotel, Bridgetown, are well-appointed houses and have excellent assembly and public rooms where balls and concerts take place: there are also several good inns.

The Dart Vale harriers are kept in the neighbourhood, and within easy distance there are also packs of fox hounds; fish abound in all parts of the river, especially between Totnes and Dartmouth, where it widens into a broad estuary with several creeks. The Weir of the Totnes Mills, contiguous to the railway station, is a favourite resort of anglers, and is a famous place for trout as well as salmon; the water is of good quality and the fishing excellent. A salmon pass was placed in Totnes Weir about 1897 by the Board of Conservators of the river Dart.

Races are held annually at the beginning of September and are usually well attended.

Here is stationed the C company of the 5th (The Hay Tor) Volunteer Battalion, Devonshire Regiment.

Two weekly newspapers are published here by Messrs. Mortimer Bros.—the "Totnes Times and Devon News," issued on Friday evening, and "The Western Guardian," issued on Wednesday: a "River Dart Guide," containing a full description of the scenery and general objects of interest in a trip down that river; "An Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Berry-Pomeroy Castle," and other guides are also published by this firm.

Totnes Cottage Hospital, erected in 1901, at a cost of about £2,000, and opened by the Duchess of Somerset, 17th May, 1901, is a spacious building of red brick, with stone dressings, in the Gothic style. It contains 9 beds and 2 cots, operating room, bath room and lavatories for each ward with hot and cold water; there is also a mortuary; the grounds are well arranged for the use of the patients.

Thomas Martin, of Totnes, in 1690, left property at Barnstaple, which was sold and the interest of the purchase money is distributed in money and kind. Capt. Short, who died at Bath in 1825, left £2,950 Consols, the annual dividends to be given away in £10 annuities to very poor men and women born and residing in Totnes. Mr. Frederick Bowden, in 1889, invested £1,000, the interest of which is distributed in the same manner. Jn. Phillips, of Totnes, conveyed two fields to trustees, who should apply the rents to the benefit of a charity school for poor boys and girls. The present trustees of the Totnes Municipal Charities are the Rev. J. Powning B.D. of Totnes, Messrs. S. E. Cary, W. Condy, T. C. Kellock, J. E. L. Lloyd, E. M. Tucker and S. H. Vibert.

Brutus' Stone is a large boulder of granite fixed in the pavement outside No. 51 Fore street, just above the Station road and on the right-hand side of the street, going towards the East gate, on which tradition alleges that Brutus of Troy stepped at his landing here; this tradition has been referred to by various writers, one of whom, John Prince, author of the "Worthies of Devon," was vicar of Totnes from 1676 to 1681.

It has for a long period been customary on the proclamation of a new sovereign for the mayor to make the proclamation from this stone.

Among distinguished natives of Totnes may be mentioned William Brockedon, topographer and artist, born 13th October, 1787; Benjamin Kennicott D.D. divine and orientalist, and canon of Ch. Ch. Oxford, born 4th April, 1718; Edward Lye, Saxon lexicographer, born 1704, and William John Wills, Australian explorer, born 1834.

On the Plains is an obelisk, erected by public subscription, August, 1864 in honour of William John Wills, who with Robert O'Hara Burke first crossed the Australian continent in 1860, but perished in returning, June 28th, 1861.

Follaton House, the seat of Stanley Edward George Cary esq. J.P. is a handsome mansion in the Italian style, about a mile west of the town and includes a domestic Catholic chapel: Broomborough, a mansion in the Elizabethan style, is the seat of Henry Paige esq.: Bowdon, the property of Sir Robert Harvey D.L., J.P. of Dundridge, is now (1901) the residence of Gerald Francis Yeo esq. F.R.S.; it was formerly the seat of the family of Giles, mentioned in Prince's "Worthies of Devon," and is a rectangular building of stone, chiefly dating from the reign of Queen Anne, and incorporates the remains of a far older house, probably erected in the time of Edward II. at which period it was held by John de Bowden.

Totnes was anciently a walled town, and had originally four gates, of which only two, the east and north, now remain. The East gate, which divides Fore street and High street, has been very much modernized: it formerly consisted of two arched portals, one for carriages, inclosed with gates, and a smaller one for foot passengers: the room over this gateway has a fine carved and coloured frieze in the Early Renaissance style, and over the chimney-piece are heads, said to represent King Henry VIII. and Queen Anne Boleyn: the apartment is wainscoted with linen-pattern panelling. The East gate has an illuminated clock on either side, and the room over the gateway is used as a reading room. In Domesday Book, Totnes is described as having 95 burgesses, besides 15 without the walls, and is said to be subject to the same services as Exeter, and never to be taxed but with that city. The barony of Totnes was part of the demesne of Edward the Confessor, but was afterwards given by William the Conqueror to Judhael, or Joel de Totneis; on his banishment by William Rufus, the barony was transferred to Roger de Novant, and was subsequently held by the Cantilupe and Zouch families: on the attainder of Lord Zouch it was given by Henry VII. to Sir Richard Edgecumbe, whose grandson sold it to Lord Edward Seymour, an ancestor of the present owner, the Duke of Somerset. The castle, which for many generations was the seat of the barony, was in ruins at the time Leland visited it in the reign of Henry VIII. except the walls and the great tower or keep, the outer walls of which are still standing; a portion of the castle moat is also intact and some of the tower walls remain: from the top of the keep magnificent views can be obtained of the surrounding country: the ruins are finely mantled with ivy, and the grounds around them are prettily laid out, and by the liberality of the late Duke of Somerset have been thrown open as a public promenade. During the reign of William the Norman, Joel Fitz Alured de Totneis founded a priory here, near the site of the present church, as a cell to the Benedictine abbey of St. Sergius and St. Bacchus at Angiers: at the Dissolution it contained six monks and had an estimated yearly income of £124: the remains include the refectory, precinct wall, abbott's gate, still house and a large Perpendicular gatehouse. The cloister garth inclosed a square of 124 feet:

its site is now partly occupied by the Guildhall and other buildings.

The Duke of Somerset is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are S. E. G. Cary esq. Henry Paige esq. Mrs. Farwell, T. C. Kellock and John Pethick esqs. Sir Robert Harvey kt. D.L., J.P. Miss Durant of Sharpsham, Peter F. S. Amery esq. of Ashburton, the Misses Taylor, A. M. Champernowne esq. J.P. and John Fleming esq. J.P. of Bigadon.

The area of the original parish was 1,051 acres, but by the addition of Bridgetown, also a portion of Dartington, is now (1901) 1,483 acres; rateable value, £17,579; the population in 1891 was 3,377, including 9 officers and 210 inmates in the workhouse, but including Bridgetown, 4,016; and in 1901 was 4,034.

TOWNSTAL, see Dartmouth.

TRENTISHOE is a parish and village, in a picturesque valley on the sea coast, surrounded by woodland scenery and beautiful sea views, 5 miles north from Paracombe station on the Barnstaple and Lynton railway, 12 north from Barnstaple and 20 east from Ilfracombe on the London and South Western railway, in the North Western division of the county, Braunton hundred and petty sessional division, Barnstaple union and county court district, rural deanery of Sherwill, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Peter is a small edifice of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave, north porch and a western tower containing 2 bells: it was rebuilt in 1861, the repair of the chancel being effected at the expense of the Rev. Charles Scriven M.A. late rector: there are 70 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1695; marriages, 1697. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £83, in the gift of Col. Griffiths, of Nursling, near Southampton, and held since 1886 by the Rev. Reginald Walter Oldham M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, who is also rector of Martinhoe, where he resides. The poor have 40s. yearly, left by the Rev. C. Griffiths in 1858. Many persons are attracted here in order to visit the far-famed rocky valley called "Heddon's Mouth," in this neighbourhood; at the point where the river falls into the sea, the rocks form a cavern resembling a huge mouth, from which the spot obtains its name. Col. Griffiths and the Rev. A. C. Chicester are the chief landowners. The soil is stony, with a shale subsoil. The chief crops are oats and barley and some pasture; a large portion of the parish is moorland. The area is 1,566 acres of land and 40 of foreshore; assessable value, £503; the population in 1901 was 68.

Letters through Barnstaple, via Parracombe, arrive at 11 a.m.; dispatched at the same time. The nearest money order & telegraph office is at Combartin, 4 miles distant

The children of this parish attend the school at Martinhoe, distant 2½ miles

TRUSHAM is a parish and village on the river Teign, one mile north-east from Trusham station on the Teign Valley branch of the Great Western railway, 8 south-west from Exeter, 4 north-east from Bovey Tracey and 8 north from Newton Abbot, in the Mid division of the county, Exminster hundred, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Newton Abbot union, Newton Abbot and Torquay county court district, rural deanery of Moreton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Michael, erected in 1259 and the aisle added in 1430, is an ancient building of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles with traces of Norman work, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, separated from the nave by an arcade of three arches, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, dating from 1431 to 1897: the church was thoroughly restored in 1865, when the stained east window and a smaller one were inserted as memorials to the Rev. William Edward Brendon, who died in 1864; and there are others to Mrs. Cotgrave, d. 1849, and R. E. F. Cotgrave, d. 1873, and to the wife of the Rev. O. H. Cary, rector: a painting in panels, dated 1583, with the arms of Stapenhill, occupies part of the north chancel wall, where also are monuments to the Stooke family, 1677-97: in the chancel there is a Late Norman piscina and a Norman font: the rood screen, the up-rights of which date from the year 1431, was restored in 1890 at the cost of the present rector: there are 138 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £150, including 50 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Sir E. R. T. Pole bart. and held since 1888 by the Rev. Olfey Henry Cary M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. There are almshouses for poor people in the parish, formerly endowed with the rents of 100 acres of land in the parish of Christow, left by John Stooke in 1688, and amounting to £40 yearly: this property has been purchased by the Torquay Corporation and the proceeds invested in securities producing £60 per annum. A charity of £4 is annually distributed in doles; another of £18, vested in landed property, is for the support of the school; and in 1884 an anonymous donor gave £50 to be invested for the poor. This village is noted for the delightful views in its neighbourhood. The Commercial Union Insurance Company, who are lords of the manor, and the Earl of Morley are the principal landowners. The soil is light loam; the subsoil is chiefly stone brash. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 618 acres of land and 7 of water; rateable value, £874; the population in 1901 was 165.

By a Local Government Board Order, 16,368, which came into operation March 25, 1884, a detached part of this parish, known as Lower Bramble and Middle Bramble, was amalgamated with Ashton in St. Thomas union.

UFFCULME is a market town and parish, pleasantly seated on the river Culm, with a station on the Culm Valley branch of the Great Western railway, and is 5 miles north-east-by-north from Cullompton, 7 east from Tiverton by road and about 178 from London, in the North Eastern division of the county, hundred of Bampton, petty sessional division of Cullompton, union and county court district of Tiverton, rural deanery of East Tiverton and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The town is lighted with gas from works the property of Mr. Ellis Curwood and Messrs. Fox Brothers and Co. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a building of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches and a western tower, with spire, containing a clock and 6 bells, cast in 1801 from a previous peal of 5, but at the rebuilding of the tower in 1847 the tenor was re-cast by Messrs. Mears, of London, at the expense of the late Richard Marker esq. and weighs 24 cwt.: the church retains a richly-carved rood screen, one of the finest in the county, and has several mural monuments to the Walrond, Windsor and Marker families: in the north aisle or Walrond chapel are two ancient monuments, on one of which, a high tomb, are three demi-effigies, richly coloured, of a man and his wife, and between these a youth; the two former holding books and the latter a skull: the side of the tomb is panelled and exhibits two similar busts of males; on the margin are some Latin sentences and the date, 1663, and on the upper slab four rhyming lines in English; the shields on the tomb displays the arms of Walrond, Kelleway and Specott; on the ledge of the window above lies a fine recumbent male effigy in armour and wearing a flowing wig: in the churchyard is a lych gate of stone: the church was restored in 1890 at a cost of £500, and will seat 800 persons. The register of baptisms dates from 1543; burials from the 15th December, 1538; and marriages from 1539. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £312, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Exeter, and held since 1897 by the Rev. Walter Allen Lewis M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Rev. Henry Bramley, late vicar and sub-dean of Exeter, receives a yearly pension from the living of £112. The great and small tithes are commuted at £1,020 19s. 9d. the former being in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. There are two district chapels: one, a building of stone, was erected at Bradfield, in 1875, by the late Sir J. W. Walrond, at a cost of £3,000, and consists of nave and chancel, with sittings for 120 persons; attached to the chapel is a burial ground: the other, in the hamlet of Ashill, erected in 1882, at a cost of £1,400, is an edifice

The church room, erected to commemorate the Jubilee in 1887 of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, is fitted with a large stage, and has an annexed class-room: it will seat 350 persons. The Congregational chapel at Cold Harbour, erected in 1720 and rebuilt in 1862, is an edifice in the Gothic style, and will seat 250 persons; a Sunday school was built in 1892. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1743, and enlarged in 1834, was restored in 1897, at a cost of £500, and has 200 sittings: there is also a small Baptist chapel at Ashill, seating 100. A cemetery of 1½ acres, part of which is consecrated, was provided in 1882 at a cost of £1,000, and is under the management of the Parish Council. A market was granted to this place in 1266; markets are held bi-monthly on second Monday in February, April, June, August and October, and the first Monday in December. The woollen factory of Messrs. Fox Brothers and Co. Limited, of Wellington, employs about 170 persons; there is also a brewery, belonging to the trustees of the late Mr. William Furze, and there are flour mills in the parish. Charities amounting to about £75 are distributed yearly by trustees and the vicar and churchwardens. Bradfield, the seat of Col. the Right Hon. Sir William Hood Walrond bart. P.C., M.P., V.D., D.L., J.P. is a noble and ancient mansion of the 16th century, with some curiously ornamented rooms and is surrounded by extensive grounds. Grantlands, the residence of the Rev. Stephen Bennett M.A. was erected in 1865; Craddock House is the seat of John Cave New esq. D.L., J.P.; Gaddon House, of William Talley Wood esq.; Craddock Cleve is the residence of Lieut.-Col. James Johnstone. William Talley Wood esq. is lord of the manor of Gaddon. Col. the Right Hon. Sir William Hood Walrond bart. P.C., M.P., J. C. New esq. Richard Hall Clarke esq. of Bridwell House, Arthur Aysford Wood esq. of Tiverton, John Gamsey Pedler esq. of Sampford Peverell and John Francis Wood and Robert Warren Venn esqrs. and Mrs. Partridge are the principal landowners. The soil is chiefly light and sandy, and has a gravelly subsoil. The parish is principally pasture for dairy purposes; the crops are barley, wheat and oats. The area is 6,134 acres of land and 24 of water; rateable value, £11,199; the population in 1901 was 1,704.

UGBOROUGH is a large parish and village, on the road from Totnes to Plymouth, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-west from Wrangaton, late Kingsbridge Road station, on the South Devon section of the Great Western railway, 3 south-east from Ivybridge and 14 east from Plymouth, 8 west-south-west from Totnes and 9 north-west from Kingsbridge, in the Southern division of the county, Ermington and Plympton hundred and petty sessional division, Totnes union and county court district, rural deanery of Plympton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church (dedication uncertain), formerly attached to Plympton Priory, is a fine old building, chiefly in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of granite, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 8 bells: the tower was struck by lightning in 1872, when one of the pinnacles was thrown down and large stones hurled to a considerable distance: the font is Norman, and there are some remains of ancient screen work, including a fairly good road and a parlouse: the former, which has thirty-two painted panels, has been cut down to the level of the seats: the church has 670 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £330, including 52 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Grocers' Company, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Wm. Edwd. Windle M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. Here is a Congregational chapel, and there is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel at Bittaford Bridge. The reading room here is maintained by subscriptions. 50s. is distributed yearly from Sir J. Powell's charity. The manor anciently belonged to the Briweres and afterwards to the Mohuns. The Carew family are now lords of the manor; and Mrs. Craig, the Misses Pearse Sawyer and C. A. Wroth, Nicholas Rowe and A. J. White esqrs. and F. J. Cornish-Bowden esq. of Black Hall, Avonwick, are the chief landowners. The soil is loamy; the subsoil is various. The chief crops are corn and turnips, a considerable portion of the parish being pasture. The area is 8,945 acres of land, including about 3,000 acres of moor.

UPLAWMAN is a scattered parish, near the river Lowman, 4 miles north-east from Tiverton station on the Exe Valley branch of the Great Western railway, in the North Eastern division of the county, petty sessional division of Oulmington, hundred, union and county court district of Tiverton, rural deanery of East Tiverton and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Peter was erected in the 15th century, on the site of an earlier church built by Walter Stapilton, bishop of Exeter, 1308-27: of this church nothing remains except the capital of one of the pillars, now placed over the south doorway: the present church was built by the Lady Margaret Beaufort, Countess of Richmond and mother of Henry VII. who resided occasionally at the village of Sampford Peverell: it is an edifice in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, dating from 1681 to 1820; the fourth has the legend, "Ave Maria": on the south side of the chancel arch is a hagioglyph: the south aisle was lengthened by the addition of a small chapel or chantry, founded by one of the Courtenay family, whose initials, "P. C." may be seen over a niche between the choir and the south aisle; within the niche are the badges of the Courtenay and Bohun families: the capitals of the piers bear the shields of the families of Ralegh and Bonville: three of the windows are stained, one being a memorial to the Rev. S. Pidsley, a former rector, and another to the late Mr. Commissioner Bere: the church was restored and a new chancel built in 1864: a memorial brass by Mr. Harry Hema, of Exeter, was placed on the south chancel wall in 1892, in memory of the Rev. Charles Sandford Bere M.A. rector of this parish 1858-85 and vicar of Morebath, where he died, 1885-89: the organ was provided in 1890, at a cost of £350, and in 1896 carved oak chancel seats and a reading desk: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1662. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £327, including 42 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1885 by the Rev. Henry Mooyaart M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. At Whitnage is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel, built in 1888. Charities to the amount of £35 yearly are distributed in money, £8 in calico and flannel and £11 in books and religious instruction. Capt. Hugh Leonard Acland Troyte, of Huntsham Court, who is lord of the manor, Admiral George Parker, of Ivy-bridge, and William H. C. Nation esq. of Rockbeare, are the principal landowners. The soil is principally sandy and very fertile; subsoil, rocky. The chief crops are wheat, barley and apples. The acreage is 3,210; rateable value, £3,310; the population in 1901 was 374 in the civil and 389 in the ecclesiastical parish. By Local Government Board Order 16,306, which came into operation March 25, 1884, a detached part of Halberton parish, known as the tithing of Chief Lowman, was amalgamated with this parish.

UP-OTTERY is a pleasant village, on the river Otter and on the road from Honiton to Taunton, 5 miles north-east-by-north from Honiton station on the London and South Western railway, in the Eastern division of the county, Axminster hundred, Honiton petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Dunkeswell and Honiton and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: there are memorial windows to members of the Sidmouth family, and in 1897 a memorial east window was erected by the same family to Georgiana Susan (Pellow), Viscountess Sidmouth, who died in 1896: the church was restored and reseated in 1875-6, at a cost of £1,500, and has 225 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1560; marriages, 1750. The living is a vicarage, net yearly income £321, with residence and 4 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and held since 1885 by the Rev. John Jane, of St. Aidans. A cattle fair is held yearly on the Tuesday before Lady day. Up-Ottery Manor House, the seat of the Hon. Gerald Anthony Pellow Bagnall Addington J.P. is a noble Elizabethan mansion, standing on the brow of a hill near the village and commanding inland scenery of the finest character: the interior is very beautiful and is adorned with pictures by ancient masters and several busts of members of the family, among which is one of Henry (Addington), first Viscount Sidmouth and some time speaker of the House of Commons, by Roubiliac. The Hon. G. A. P. B. Addington is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is clay, marl and fox mole; the subsoil is clay, marl and gravel. The crops are wheat, barley and turnips; the greater portion of the land is pasture. The area is 5,898 acres; rateable value, £5,330; the population in 1901 was 666. The parish consists of two tithings. RAWRIDGE tithing is 1 mile south. SMEATHARP tithing is 2 miles north-west of the parish church; here is a Baptist chapel.

UPTON HELIONS is a parish and village, on the river Creedy, 2 miles north from Crediton station on the London and South Western railway, 9 north-west from Exeter, in the Northern division of the county, West Budleigh hundred, Crediton petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Cadbury and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Mary, formerly dedicated to St. Nicholas, is an ancient edifice, partly Norman, with a Perpendicular south aisle, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle and an embattled western tower containing one bell inscribed in old English characters, "Est michi collatum 3. B. S. istud nomen amatum;" it was partly restored in 1870 and completed in 1880: there are monuments to the Rev. Chancellor Carrington and other rectors and a remarkable one of the Elizabethan period attached to the north wall of the chancel; it includes two figures kneeling at a prayer desk, and is conjectured to have been erected to the memory of Richard Reynell and Mary Periam, his wife, through whom he became possessed of the estate of Creedy Wiger in Upton Helions; on a floor-slab below the monument are the arms of Reynell impaling Periam: several families of distinction, including the Wigers, Reynells, Periams, Pointingdons, Carews, Youngs and Buckinghams, have been connected in former times with this parish: the church was repaired throughout in 1897: there are 90 sittings. The register dates from the year 1678. The

UPTON PYNE is a parish and village on the Thorverton road, 1½ miles south from Bramford Speke station on the Exe Valley branch of the Great Western railway, and 3 north from Exeter, in the North Eastern division of the county, East Wonford hundred, Wonford petty sessional division, St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, rural deanery of Cadbury and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Mary the Virgin, consecrated September 26, 1328, is a building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles containing 6 bells, 5 of which were cast by Thomas Bilbie in 1755 and a sixth added by the Upton Pyne Ringing Society in 1881: the fine reredos was erected as a memorial to the late Earl of Idlesleigh by the dowager countess and incloses an ancient altar-piece, representing the "Last Supper," and there is a carved pulpit and other works by Hems, of Exeter: in the church is a monument with recumbent effigy in armour to Edmund Larder, a former owner of Pynes, dated 1611: here are numerous tablets to the Stafford, Slanning and Northcote families and memorial windows to Sir Stafford Henry Northcote bart. d. 17 March, 1851; his eldest son Henry, d. 1850; the 1st Earl of Idlesleigh P.C., G.C.B. d. 1887; to the Hon. Mrs. Hugh Oliver Northcote, d. 1887, and to the Rev. Charles Stafford Northcote and his wife, erected by their daughter Selina in 1892; there is also a memorial, representing in tile-work the "Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary," erected to Alice Caroline (Owen), first wife of the Hon. and Rev. Arthur Francis Northcote, vicar of St. Gregory, Canterbury, d. 1878, and to Mary Arabella (Toler), his second wife: the church was thoroughly restored, new-roofed, re-seated and an organ aisle added in 1874-5 from designs by Mr. William White, architect, of London, at a total cost of £1,920; a new organ was erected in 1896 at a cost of £100, in memory of the late Mr. Noah England, for 40 years schoolmaster of Upton Pyne: the church affords 250 sittings: the lych gate at the entrance of the churchyard was erected by Lady Northcote in 1875, and over the grave of the late Earl of Idlesleigh is a memorial erected in 1890, and executed by Hems and Sons, of Exeter. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1673; burials and marriages, 1688. The living is a rectory, net yearly income £360, including 90 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Idlesleigh C.B. and held since 1900 by the Rev. Arthur Hillyard M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. Dr. John Walker, author of the "Sufferings of the Clergy," was buried in the church. The charities amount to £6 inducted to this living in 1720; he died in 1746, and yearly. The Upton Pyne Club, established in 1875 by the Rev. the Hon. J. Stafford Northcote, rector here 1881-9, for the benefit of the working men of the village, comprises a reading room supplied with the local papers &c. bagatelle table and various games, and has also a small library: there are about 70 members, who pay a yearly subscription. A school library of about 120 volumes is maintained at the parsonage. Pynes, the seat

VENN OTTERY is a village and parish on the western bank of the river Otter, 1 mile west from Tipton St. John station on the Sidmouth branch of the London and South Western railway, about $4\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from Sidmouth and 9 south-west from Honiton, in the Eastern division of the county, East Budleigh hundred, Ottery petty sessional division, union and county court district of Honiton, rural deanery of Ottery and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Gregory is a small edifice of stone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells: it was thoroughly restored and reseated in 1882 at a cost of £500: some of the old carved bench ends bear the initials "M. B. T. D.," "S. G." and "B. H." over shields, representing, it is believed, the names of families once resident here: in 1884 the beam of the rood screen was cut up by permission of the rural dean, and made use of to repair the fabric: it has 80 sittings. The register dates from the year 1681. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Harpford, joint net yearly value £173, including 23 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Hon. Mark George

WALKHAMPTON is a parish and village near the valley of the Walkham, on the border of Dartmoor, 2 miles east from the Horrabridge station on the Tavistock and Launceston branch of the South Devon section of the Great Western railway, $10\frac{1}{2}$ north from Plymouth and 5 south-east from Tavistock, in the Western division of the county, Roborough hundred, Midland Roborough petty sessional division, Tavistock union and county court district, rural deanery of Tavistock, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church (not dedicated) stands on an elevated position about half a mile north-east from the village, and is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with four octagonal crested pinnacles, richly crocketed and terminating in crosses; the tower contains 6 bells: within the church are two image brackets, one on the north wall of the chancel, and another at the east end of the nave: the font has an octagonal basin, the sides of which are relieved by blank shields, and the pedestal is ornamented with quatrefoils: in 1861 the interior was thoroughly restored at a cost of £750, and in 1872 the chancel was decorated in memory of the Hon. Bertha (Buller), wife of Sir Massey Lopes, bart. who died 13th January, 1872: the east window is stained, and there is an oak reredos: on April 6th, 1889, the north-east pinnacle of the tower was struck by lightning, the roof completely wrecked and other portions of the church damaged: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1675. The living is a vicarage, net yearly income £167, with residence and 22 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Right Hon. Sir Massey Lopes bart. P.C. and held since 1863 by the Rev. Charles Henry Walker M.A. of Oriol College, Oxford. The church house, near the churchyard, has a good roof of ancient oak, and the house bears the initials "R. S. J. W." and WASHFIELD is a parish and village, on the river Exe, commanding a pleasant prospect of the country, and is 2½ miles north-west from Tiverton station on the Exe Valley branch of the Great Western railway, in the North Eastern division of the county, West Budleigh hundred, Culmpton petty sessional division, Tiverton union and county court district, rural deanery of West Tiverton and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, dating from 1787 to 1901; both the tower and bells were restored in 1900-01, at a cost of £500: there is a very ancient Norman font and a richly-carved Jacobean screen, dated 1624 and made by Henry Sebright: on the wall of the north aisle is a brass with kneeling effigies of Henry Worth esq. ob. 3 Aug. 1606, his wife and daughter, with a shield of arms, and at the foot a Latin inscription: there is also an inscribed brass, with a long rhyming epitaph and two shields of arms, to Alice (Frye), wife of Philip Steynings esq. ob. 8 Aug. 1605, 9 sons and 5 daughters, erected by her son-in-law, George Montgomery; and several monuments: the church was restored in 1874 at a cost of about £1,000, and in Feb. 1891 a flagstaff and weathercock were placed on the tower by the rector and the churchwarden, Mr. Robert Morgan: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £220, including 35 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the trustees of Mrs. Lloyd-Worth, and held since 1899 by the Rev. Charles Hesketh Knowlly M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There are charities of over £40 yearly value. Worth House, pleasantly situated, is the property of Mrs. de Las Casas. The Worth estate which had been the property and residence of the elder branch of the Worth family since the first half of the 12th century, was sold in the years 1877 and 1888. Higher Pitt belongs to Mr. Henry Gale; North Windbow and Headon to Mr. A. Ayre; Hatawell to Mr. William Trebble and Easterlands to Edwin Harris Dunning esq. Mrs. de Las Casas, who is lady of the manor, Edwin Harris Dunning esq. of Easterlands and Stoodleigh Court, and Messrs. Payne and Critchett are the chief landowners. The soil is light; subsoil, partly clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and grass. The area is 3,294 acres of land and 16 of water; rateable value, £3,586; the population in 1901 was 332.

WEAR GIFFORD is a parish on the river Torridge, 3½ miles south from Bideford station on the Torrington branch of the London and South Western railway; 3 north-west from Torrington, in the Northern division of the county, Shebbear hundred, Torrington petty sessional division; union and county court district, rural deanery of Hartland, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The church of the Holy Trinity is an edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing 6 bells, five of which were cast in 1765 by Thomas Bibbie, of Cullumpton: the chancel has a fine roof of Perpendicular date: in the north wall of the nave, within two recessed arches, are two recumbent effigies of a cross-legged knight and a lady; the former, placed on a white altar-tomb, is in a suit of mail, with cowl, covered by a cyclas, or long-skirted tunic, and carries a shield and sword; the figure of the lady wears a coronet, and is attired in whimple and flowing robes, covered by a mantle, and at the sides are mutilated figures of angels holding up drapery; these effigies may represent Sir Walter Giffard, lord of this place in 1243, and his wife: there are also memorials to the Fortescues, and a modern brass: the church was thoroughly restored and reseated and a new tenor bell hung in 1869: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1583. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £118, including 5½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Viscount Ebrington, and held since 1891 by the Rev. Stephen Wade M.A. of Balliol College, Oxford. Here are Wesleyan chapels. John Lovering's charity, amounting to £10 3s. 8d. yearly, is distributed in money. The country is finely wooded and fish are abundant in the river Torridge. Wear Hall, belonging to the Fortescue family, is an interesting structure of the 15th century, consisting of a central block with wings, occupied for some time as a farmhouse, but restored in 1832 by the late Hon. George Fortescue: the embattled gatehouse remains, and the dining hall, a noble apartment, 10ft. by 33ft. has fine carved oak paneling and a beautifully carved oak roof: other portions of the mansion retain similar work and some ancient portraits and tapestry: it is now occupied by His Honor Judge Cecil Hugh Wriothersley Beresford B.A., J.P. judge of Circuit No. 28. This place takes its name from the Giffard family, who held the manor during several centuries: in the reign of Henry VI. it passed by marriage to Martin, son of Sir John Fortescue, Lord High Chancellor, from whom it has descended to its present owner, Earl Fortescue. Viscount Ebrington, who is lord of the manor, the Hon. Mark George Kerr Rolle, and the Rev. Richard Turner M.A. vicar of West Bickleigh, are the chief landowners. The soil is good loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,703 acres of land, 2 of water, 20 of tidal water and 12 of foreshore; rateable value, £1,898; the population in 1901 was 299.

WELCOMBE is a parish and village on the extreme borders of Devon and adjoining Cornwall on the south, its greatest breadth being towards the coast of Bude bay, which at this point is extremely grand; it is 17 miles south-west from Bideford station on the Torrington branch and 14 north-west from Holsworthy terminal station on a branch of the London and South Western railway, and 10 north from Stratton (Cornwall), in the North Western division of the county, Hartland hundred, Bideford petty sessional division and union, county court district of Holaworthy, rural deanery of Hartland, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The road from Bideford to Bude passes along the borders of the parish. The church of St. Nectan is an ancient cruciform edifice of stone of the 12th or 13th century, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells, of which the first and third date from 1731; the tenor was also of this date, but has been recast since the restoration of the church; the second was recast in 1790: the church retains a very beautifully carved oak screen, and over the arches of the transepts is some interesting carved work, representing on one side "the fruitful vine," and on the other "the barren fig tree": the church was restored in 1883-4, and has 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £190, including 117 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Crown and Lord

Clinton alternately, but pro hac vice the Lord Chancellor by lapse, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Erisey John Porter M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, who resides at Dean Lodge, Morwenstowe, Cornwall. The Rev. R. S. Hawker, poet and antiquary, was 30 years curate here. Outside the churchyard gate is an ancient "Holy Well." Here is a Wesleyan chapel. The valleys and cliffs bordering on this parish are extremely picturesque. Welcombe Mouth and Marsland Valley, referred to in Charles Kingsley's "Westward Ho!" are especially noted for their wild and enchanting scenery. Lord Clinton is lord of the manor; Messrs. William Walker, William Hedden, John Mear How, of East Ford, Little Torrington, and the trustees of the late Richard Hedden are the chief landowners. The soil is light, resting on hard sandstone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The parish contains 1,787 acres of land and 34 of foreshore; rateable value, £912; the population in 1901 was 150.

WEMBURY is a parish on the south coast, 6 miles south-east from Plymouth, in the Southern division of the county, hundred of Plympton, petty sessional division of Ermington and Plympton, union of Plympton St. Mary, county court district of East Stonehouse, rural deanery of Plympton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Werburg, situated close to the sea and at some distance from the village, is a plain building of local stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells, of which the first is dated 1675, and has the inscription "When I doe call, then follow me all," and the tenor dates from 1631: the second bell is cracked: in the church are several monuments, including one dated 1677 to the family of Calmady, and another on the north side of the chancel, and dated 1601, to Sir John Hele and his family, and three parclose screens, erected from the designs of Messrs. Hine and Odgers, architects, and executed by Hems, of Exeter: the ancient screen was taken down and destroyed about 1850: the church was restored and re-seated in 1886 by the same architects, at a cost of £3,500, and affords 280 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1611; marriages, 1612. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £280, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Charles Burgess. One of the ancestors of Vincent Calmady esq. in 1682 bequeathed £500, now £522 3s. 10d. Consols. to the parish, the interest of which is distributed in bread, coals and clothing. Langdon Court, a mile and a quarter distant, is the property of Richard Cory esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor, which up to the time of the Dissolution belonged to the priory of Plympton; it was built in 1577 by the families of Pollexton and Calmady, and inhabited by them till 1875, when it was bought by Mr. Cory.

and Launceston canal, which terminated at Druxton in this parish, is not now used. The church of SS. Martin and Giles was built in 1742, in the peculiar semi-classic style then prevailing, and at that time was an oblong structure, consisting of nave with quasi-chancel, shallow transepts and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, originally containing 2 bells, both cast by John Pennington and Co. in 1769; in 1898 a new peal of 8 bells (6 of which were given by the Cooe family, of Polapit Tamar) were cast and hung by Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough: the building has plain semicircular-headed windows and a flat ceiling; the transepts appropriated as private sittings, with entrances from the outside, and the tower is singularly flanked a few yards distant north and south by two dwarf replicas of itself; around the whole exterior of this edifice are equi-distant niches or alcoves, containing twelve life-sized figures, said to represent the Apostles; these were removed from a former church which stood in Werrington Park, as was also the circular Norman font and a curious mural monument, with effigies in Elizabethan costume attached to the outside of the east wall: on the south side is a memorial window to the wife (1872) and two daughters (1869 and 1871) of Edward Coode esq. of Polapit Tamar: the east window is a memorial to the Rev. E. King, a former vicar, and there are others to the late Edward Coode esq. of Polapit Tamar, d. 1894, and the late William Stert Milnes esq.: there are 173 sittings. The church was restored in 1891 at a cost of between £2,500 and £3,000, under the direction of Messrs. St. Aubyn and Wadling, architects, of London; the work comprised the building of a new chancel and organ chamber, the erection of a new arched roof, the conversion of the two galleries, or private pews, into independent class rooms, approached by spiral stone staircases, the enlargement of the vestry, and the opening and fitting of the chamber over the Morice vault; the tower was also new roofed, the interior re-seated and re-floored throughout, the window frames renewed in stone, heating apparatus fixed and a thorough system of drainage carried out. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £176, with residence and 4½ acres of glebe, in the gift of John Charles Williams esq. and held since 1901 by the Rev. Ponsonby Augustus Moore Sullivan M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. There is a Bible Christian chapel at Bridgetown and a Wesleyan chapel at Lady Cross, built in 1879 and seating 180 persons. Polapit Tamar, the seat of Richard Carlyon Coode esq. D.L., J.P. is a modern mansion in the Cinque Cento style, with extensive grounds, in the eastern portion of the parish, on the west bank of the Tamar. Werrington Park, the seat of John Charles Williams esq. is a beautiful estate in the southern portion of the parish, formerly belonging to the Duke of Northumberland; the mansion stands on an eminence commanding extensive and varied views of woodland scenery: the larger portion of the estate is in Cornwall, and the river Attery, which here divides the counties, runs through the grounds: the park of 355 acres is inclosed by a stone wall 8 feet high, and outside this are woods and plantations of about 150 acres: the whole estate has an area of 2,600 acres. Richard Carlyon Coode esq. who is lord of the manor of Polapit Tamar; the Duke of Bedford, who is lord of the manor of Werrington; John Charles Williams esq. of Werrington Park, and Percy Walker Milnes esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is mostly clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area of the parish is 5,257 acres of land and 48 of water; rateable value, £4,468; the population in 1901 was 658 in the civil and in the ecclesiastical parish, and is principally agricultural.

By Local Government Board Order 20,640, a detached part of Northcott, known as Issacott or Hessacott, was added to this parish, March 24, 1888.

Deputy Sexton, Josiah Ayres.

National School, Lady Cross (mixed), erected by the Duchess of Northumberland in 1805 and enlarged in 1895 by J. C. Williams esq. for 160 children; average attendance, 113; Benjamin Thomas Vanstone, master; Miss Morwena Ward, assistant mistress YEOLMBRIDGE, in this parish, is on the river Attery, here crossed by a bridge; here also is an extensive slate quarry, the property of the trustees of the late William Stert Milnes esq. which exhibits some remarkable cleavage planes in arched strata. A reading room with library is supported by the resident population.

Post Office, Yeolmbridge.—Mrs. Annabella Toms, sub-postmistress. Letters received from Launceston at 7.45 a.m.; dispatched at 5.25 p.m. Postal orders are issued here, but not paid. Newport Launceston is the nearest money order & telegraph office, 2 miles distant

WESTLEIGH (or Leigh West) is a parish and village, near the river Torridge, 2 miles north-east from Bideford station on the Torrington branch of the London and South Western railway and 7 south-west from Barnstaple, in the North Western division of the county, Fremington hundred, Barnstaple union, Bideford petty sessional division and county court district, rural deanery of Barnstaple and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Peter is an ancient building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transept, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, recast by Taylor and Co. of Loughborough, in 1881: there are memorial windows to Thomas Berry esq. of Eastleigh, d. 1802; the Rev. John Torr M.A. 34 years vicar, d. 1835, and Jane, his wife, d. 1885; Gen. Thomas and Archibald Cleveland esq. cornet, 17th Lancers, who fell at Inkerman, 5th November, 1854; and to whom there is also a monument in the church: the west window is a memorial to Robert Pickard R.N. d. 17 March, 1894: the church was restored in 1880-82, at a cost of £1,292, under the direction of Mr. J. F. Gould, architect, of Barnstaple, and now affords 320 sittings. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £165, with residence and 48 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and held since 1895 by the Rev. Nicholas Germon M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. There is a Wesleyan chapel at Westleigh and one at Eastleigh. A sum of £200 was left in trust to the Vicar by the late R. Pickard esq. R.N. the interest of which is to provide an annual treat to the children attending the Church Sunday school. Tapeley Park is the seat of Augustus Langham Christie esq.; the mansion stands in very picturesque grounds and in the park is a pillar, erected in 1856 by public subscription to the memory of Lieut. Archibald Cleveland (17th Lancers), who, after taking part in the famous cavalry charge at Balaclava, October 25th, 1854, fell at Inkerman, November 5th, in the same year; this memorial forms a prominent object from the North Devon (South Western) railway from Barnstaple to Torrington. Edward Ralph Berry Torr esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor of Westleigh, A. L. Christie esq. of Tapeley Park, lord of the manor of Eastleigh, Lieut.-Col. Sir William Lewis Stucley bart. of Hartland Abbey, and Major Charles Anthony Clare Deane, are the chief landowners. The soil is generally good; subsoil, clay and light shale. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,463 acres of land, 1 of water, 38 of tidal water and 303 of foreshore; rateable value, £2,891; the population in 1901 was 401.

EASTLEIGH, 1 mile east, on the road from Bideford to Barnstaple, and SOUTHCOTT, half a mile south, are hamlets. Southcott Barton is a very interesting old house in the Elizabethan style, the ceilings in some of the rooms display fine stucco work, and there is an old oak staircase and front door: it is now occupied as a farmhouse by Mr. Richard Balsdon.

WESTON PEVEREL (or Pennycross) is a parish on the road from Devonport to Tavistock, 2½ miles north from Plymouth, Western division of the county, Roborough hundred and petty sessional division, Plympton St. Mary union, county court district of East Stonehouse, rural deanery of Three Towns, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. In November, 1893, the boroughs of Plymouth and Devonport were extended, by which was incorporated a large portion of this parish. The church of St. Pancras, possibly corrupted into "Pennycross," is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south porches, vestry and a belfry containing one bell, recast in 1821 and inscribed "VENITE ADOREMUS DOMINUM:" in the church are monuments to the family of Reginald Hall Pariby esq. of Manadon, and to the Clarke, Collins, Trelawny and other families: the church, enlarged in 1820, was restored in 1870, at a cost of £1,600, and a vestry is now (1901) being added at the cost of Alderman John Bright James J.P. as a memorial to his late wife: there are 250 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1634; marriages, 1636; burials, 1635. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £160, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1893 by the Rev. William Edward Waddington M.A. of Emanuel College, Cambridge. Montpelier Mission Hall seats 200 people. There are charities to the amount of £4 yearly value. St. Joseph's House of the Little Sisters of the Poor, erected in 1885, is a fine building of stone in a Continental style, and contains 80 aged men and women. Manadon, the seat of Reginald Hall Pariby esq. is a mansion of stone, dating from 1567, mentioned in Domesday Book, standing in extensive and well-wooded grounds. Ham is the property of the Rev.

J. Trelawny Ross D.D. vicar of Paignton, and now occupied by Miss Arthurine Trelawny Collins; it was rebuilt in 1639 by Robert Trelawny esq. M.P. for Plymouth, and has grounds 109 acres in extent. Burleigh, the property and seat of Mrs. William Hawker, stands in grounds of 8 acres. Torr Grove is the residence of Mrs. Bayly; Highbury, of Rear-Admiral Joseph Edward Maitland Wilson J.P.; Pounds, of Sir John Jackson F.R.S.E. and Welby, of Mr. George Shellbear. Reginald Hall Pariby esq. is lord of the manor. Richard Hall Clarke esq. D.L., J.P. and the Rev. John Trelawny Ross D.D. are the principal landowners. The soil is loamy; subsoil, slate. The chief crops are wheat, barley and pasture. The area is 607 acres of land; rateable value, £2,741; the population in 1901 was 198.

WESTWARD HO! a charming watering place, in the parish of Northam, has been so called from the Rev. Chas. Kingsley's novel of that name, the scene of which is chiefly laid in this vicinity; it is situated on the Northam Burrows, an extensive common of about 1,000 acres, stretching westward towards the shore of Bideford bay, on the coast of the bay between Baggly and Hartland points, into which flow the rivers Taw and Torridge, and is $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Bideford station on the London and South Western railway, $22\frac{1}{2}$ from London by the London and South Western railway, via Bideford, and $24\frac{1}{2}$ by the Great Western railway, with a station on the Bideford, Westward Ho! and Appledore railway, and is in the North Western division of the county and petty sessional division of Bideford. The inhabitants of Northam have from time immemorial had a right of pasturage on this large common, and it is greatly to be regretted that no sufficient measures are taken to restrain the encroachments of the tidal waters, which much diminish both its value and extent. Zoophytes of all kinds are to be found in abundance among the rocks, and the locality generally is rich in objects of interest to the antiquarian and geologist; a singular and very beautiful pebble ridge bounds a wide beach of sand on the one side and the extensive common on the other. There is a large and well-appointed hotel, with an excellent billiard room and good facilities for golf playing, besides many excellent lodging houses, bathing establishments, with spacious swimming baths, and good private residences; its picturesque situation and many natural beauties combine to make this one of the most attractive and popular of English watering places. The climate is equal, if not superior, to any in England, being mild but bracing, and the winter is on a par with that of the Riviera. The church of the Holy Trinity, erected in 1870 as a chapel of ease to Northam, is an edifice of stone, in the Early English style, from designs by Mr. Oliver, architect, of Barnstaple, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western turret containing 2 bells: there are 400 sittings: divine service is conducted by the clergy of Northam. Here is also a Baptist chapel. Here is the Royal North Devon Golf Club and there is also a Union club. The Great Nassau Baths, the property of Mr. George J. Taylor, are 150 feet long, 55 wide and from 8 to 4 deep. Here is also a coastguard station. The United Services College was established in 1874, in order to supply to sons of officers in the two services a public school education of the highest class at a moderate cost: the school is conducted on the model of the great public schools and in conformity with the principles of the Church of England: the course of instruction is such as to qualify for the Universities and professions as well as to prepare for the Services: boys are admitted from 8 to 15 years of age and remain until 18: there is a junior school a short distance from the upper school, for boys between 8 and 12: substantial exhibitions are maintained for sons of officers of the Navy and Army and of all Government services: Rev. Francis William Tracy M.A. head master. G. J. Taylor esq. of Abbotsham Court, is the chief landowner.

WHITCHURCH is a parish and village on the high road from Plymouth to Tavistock, 2 miles south-east from Tavistock station on the London and South Western railway and 12 north from Plymouth, in the Western division of the county, Boborough hundred, Tavistock petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Tavistock, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. Sortridge, formerly a detached part of Petertavy, was by Local Government Board Order, 15,033, of 25th March, 1885, added to this parish. The church of St. Andrew is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south transept, south porch and an embattled western tower, with crocketed pinnacles, containing 6 bells; in the chancel is a curious old monument, dated 1677, to the Moringe family, who were formerly seated at Moortown in this parish: there is also a very fine marble tomb to the Rev. Mr. Pengelly, a former vicar of this parish, d. 1722: in the chancel are two memorial windows to the Rev. Samuel Featherstone B.A. vicar here 1878-83, and in the north aisle one to the wife and daughter of W. P. Michell esq. of Holwell, erected by him in 1883: there are piscines in the chancel and transept: the organ was provided in 1879, at a cost of £150: the church was restored in 1878, at a cost of

£1,025, and has 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, net yearly income £179, with residence and 80 acres of glebe, in the gift of D. R. Harvest esq. and Mrs. Chambers, and held since 1900 by the Rev. William Hampton Chambers M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. There are Bible Christian meeting houses in the village, erected in 1861. In the parish are several tin, copper and lead mines, but are not now worked. Walredon, an ancient residence, the seat of Edward John Eyre esq. is 1½ miles south-west. Grenofen, a modern mansion, and the seat of William Henry Chichester esq. J.P. is 1½ miles south-south-east. Holwell, the residence of George Pooley Martin esq. is an ancient mansion, pleasantly situated in well-wooded grounds of about 60 acres, half a mile north-east. Merevale belongs to the Right Hon. Sir Massey Lopes bart. P.C. of Maristow, and Moor Town to William Edward George esq. of Downside, Stoke Bishop, Bristol. Thomas Bulteel esq. of Radford, who is lord of the manor, the Earl of Devon, the Duke of Bedford, Rev. Percy Turner Michell M.A. vicar of North Petherton, Somerset, William Henry Chichester esq. Rev. William Henry Wyer Honey M.A., LL.M. rector of Raithby-cum-Hallington, Lincs, and Herbert Morris Spencer esq. of Bradford, Yorks, are the principal landowners. The soil is generally light; the sub-soil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and pasture. The area is 6,182 acres of land, of which about 2,523 acres are uninclosed, on the borders of Dartmoor, and 24 of water; rateable value, £7,042; the population in 1891 was 1,144 in the civil and 917 in the ecclesiastical parish.

Post, M. O. O. & S. B.—Miss Amelia Willcock, sub-postmistress. Letters arrive through Tavistock at 6.30 a.m. & 5.20 p.m.; dispatched, 6.35 a.m. & 6.5 p.m.; no delivery or dispatch on sundays. Postal orders are issued here, but not paid. Tavistock is the nearest money order & telegraph office, 2 miles distant Wall Letter Box, Grenofen, cleared at 7.10 a.m. & 5.15 p.m. A School Board of 5 members was formed February 2, 1874; J. D. Johnstone, Tavistock, clerk to the board; Thomas Winsor Whitchurch, attendance officer. In July, 1885, by an Order in Council, Buckland Monachorum & Sampford Spiney were made contributory districts, each sending 2 members. Board School (mixed), built in 1877, for 120 children; average attendance, 72; William B. Newton, master

WHITESTONE is a parish and scattered village on the main road from Exeter to Launceston, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles north-west from Exeter and 6 south-east from Crediton, in the North Eastern division of the county, Wonford hundred and petty sessional division, union of St. Thomas, county court district of Exeter, rural deanery of Kenn and arch-deaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Catharine, standing on an eminence 650 feet above the level of the river Exe, is an ancient building of stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, dating from 1793 to 1886, in which year they were re-hung; the church was renovated and re-seated in 1887-8, at a cost of £830, and has 170 sittings. The register dates from the year 1594. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £400, including 78 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and held since 1883 by the Rev. John Batteridge Pearson D.D. of that college. Here is a Wesleyan chapel. Local charities, amounting to about £21, are distributed yearly. The freeholders are lords of the manor. Antony Gibbs esq. of Tyntesfield, Wraxall, Somerset, Joseph Roberts esq. Francis Abbott esq. Sir John Shelley bart. of Shobrooke, Arthur Onslow Sillitant esq. of Coombe, Coplestone, the Rev. J. A. Prendergast M.A. vicar, of North Molton, Mrs. Yarde, Thomas Snow esq. of Sandridge, Exmouth, and Gen. the Right Hon. Sir Redvers Henry Buller P.C., V.C., G.C.B., G.C.M.G. of Downes, Crediton, are the chief landowners. The soil is clayey; the subsoil, schistous. The chief crops are wheat and oats. The acreage is 5,630; rateable value, £4,619; the population in 1901 was 512 in the civil and 413 in the ecclesiastical parish. By a Local Government Board Order, No. 16,545, which came into operation March 25, 1884, a detached part of St. Thomas parish, known as Old-ridge (which see), was amalgamated with this parish, except for ecclesiastical purposes and the distributions of charities, and another part of the parish of St. Thomas the Apostle was annexed, except for ecclesiastical purposes and the distribution of charities, by the Exeter Corporation Act of 1900, consisting of about 800 acres

WIDECOMBE-IN-THE-MOOR is a parish and village, separated on the west and south from Dartmoor and the parish of Holne by the river Dart, tributaries of which intersect the parish, and is 6½ miles north-west from Ashburton terminal station of a branch of the Great Western railway, 12 north-west from Newton Abbot and 8 south-by-west from Moreton Hampstead, in the Mid division of the county, Haytor hundred, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Newton Abbot union and county court district, rural deanery of Moreton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Pancras is an ancient cruciform building of granite in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of six bays, aisles, transepts, south porch and a magnificent embattled western tower, 120 feet in height, surmounted by four pinnacles terminated by crosses; it contains 6 bells, three of which are dated 1632: in the chancel are the remains of a square-headed sedile, and in the south transept a piscina: a portion of a very good oak screen, with painted figures on the panels, still remains: on the north side of the chancel is a mural tablet dated 1642, to Mary, wife of John Elford, of Sheepstor: the church was struck by lightning during divine service, October 21, 1638, four persons being killed and 62 injured, some of whom were hurt by the falling of one of the pinnacles of the tower; in the north aisle is a tablet bearing some verses commemorative of the event: there is a very massive stone pulpit and two stained windows, one at the east end and the other in the north aisle: the church was restored in 1874 and subsequent years, at a cost of £1,000, and affords 200 sittings. At the principal entrance to the churchyard is a lych gate. The registers of baptisms date from 1570; burials, 1560; marriages, 1573. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £224, with residence and about 60 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and held

WIDWORTHY is a parish, 3½ miles east-by-south from Honiton, 4 north-west from Seaton Junction station on the main line of the London and South Western railway and 6 north-west from Axminster, in the Eastern division of the county, Colyton hundred, Honiton petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Dunkseswell and Honiton, and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. One side of the village is in the parish of Offwell, Widworthy proper being composed of the hamlet of Wilmington, on the high road between Honiton and Axminster. The church of St. Cuthbert is an ancient cruciform building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts and a western tower containing 5 bells: over the west doorway in the tower is a carving of figures within a panel, and three shields of arms, all too much defaced to be made out: in the north transept is a fine effigy of a knight in mixed armour, with bascinet and camail and hauberk of ringed mail, covered by a tunic, and bearing on the left arm a shield with the arms of the Prouz family, "crusily of cross-crosetts, 3 lions rampant;" the figure very pro-since 1894 by the Rev. John Thomas Pickering. There is a Calvinistic chapel in Watergate and a Wesleyan chapel at Dunstone. The church house and charity land produce about £15 yearly, which is divided between the church and the School Board. A fair is held on the second Tuesday in September, yearly, for cattle, when Dartmoor sheep and ponies are largely bought. South of the village of Widecombe are the remains of a British village, and northwards are two logan or rocking stones. The Misses Larpent are owners of the manor. The chief landowners are John S. Scrimgeour esq. Frederick Pine T. Struben esq. of Lensen, John Fleming esq. of Bigadon, Frederick Hand Firth esq. of Place, Ashburton, and the Misses Larpent. The soil is light sandy; and the subsoil, granite. The crops are cereals and roots of all kinds. The area of the civil parish is 10,754 acres of land, about 4,000 of which is moorland, and 32 of water; rateable value, £5,173; the population in 1901 was 657.

VENTON, half a mile south-east, and DUNSTONE, three quarters of a mile south, are hamlets.
Sexton, Richard Nosworthy.

LEUSDEN is a hamlet and ecclesiastical parish formed from Widecombe-in-the-Moor, and will be found under a separate heading.

Post Office.—Lewis Owen Harvey, sub-postmaster. Letters through Ashburton R.S.O. delivered at 8.40 a.m.; dispatched at 9 a.m. & 3.30 p.m. Postal orders are issued here, but not paid. Manaton, 5 miles distant, is the nearest money order & telegraph office.

A School Board of 7 members was formed May 1, 1875; John Easterbrook is clerk to the board & attendance officer.

Board School (mixed), to hold 90 children; average attendance, 28; Miss Harriet Stanley, mistress.

bly represents Sir Hugh Prouz, of Widworthy, son of Sir William Prouz, of Gidleigh, and Alice (Widworthy), his wife, temp. Edward III.: in the south transept is a handsome monument to James Marwood esq. d. 1767, by Bacon, and there are various other monuments: the church has been re-seated with open oak benches: all the windows are stained. The register is in good preservation and complete from 1540. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £151, including 30 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. A. Marwood Ellon B.A., J.P. and held since 1897 by the Rev. Charles Gregson M.A. of University College, Durham. The poor have a yearly rent-charge of 20s. left by Robert Marwood in 1738; £3 3s. 4d. from Somasters' charity; £5 10s. from Tucker's charity, left in 1830; £12 18s. from Elton's charities, left in 1838; £6 from the Elton estates and £4 from Capt. H. Elton's charity. From this place the knightly family of Widworthy took their name; from one of these, Sir Hugh de Widworthy, the manor was conveyed, through his daughter Alice, to Sir William Prouz knt. and thence in 1344 to the North-cotes; subsequently it descended to the Wootton and Chichester families, from whom it passed to the Marwoods. Widworthy Court, the seat of the Rev. Alfred Marwood-Elton B.A., J.P. who is lord of the manor and practically sole landowner, is an elegant mansion, standing on an eminence; on the south and east fronts are terraces 160 feet long. The mansion was built, and the park and extensive woods formed and planted about 1830 by the late Sir Edward Marwood-Elton bart. who by descent and purchase had acquired all the large estates in this and adjoining parishes, owned for many generations by the Marwood family, and to which his grandmother and her three sisters succeeded as co-heiresses on the death of their brother, James Thomas Benedictus Marwood. The soil is clay and marl; the subsoil is marl

WINKLEIGH is a parish and ancient village on the road from Crediton to Torrington, 4 miles south-west from Eggesford station on the North Devon branch and 5 miles north-west from North Tawton station on the Devon and Cornwall section of the London and South Western railway, 6 south-west from Chulmleigh, 12 south-east from Torrington and 22 west-north-west from Exeter, in the Northern division of the county, North Tawton and Winkleigh hundred, South Molton petty sessional division, Torrington union and county court district, rural deanery of Chulmleigh, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone, chiefly in the Late Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, transept and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing a clock with chimes, presented by Miss R. Pinckard, and 8 bells: the chancel and nave are separated from the north aisle by an arcade of six arches, supported on clustered columns: the trefoiled piscina, with its projecting basin, is of Decorated date, and the ancient priest's door on the south side still remains: the windows of the nave and aisle are of Perpendicular character, but many of them have been restored: the reredos, of alabaster and mosaics, presented by Sir Charles Turner K.C.B. in memory of his parents, at a cost of £150, was designed by the late Mr. J. Gould, architect; the carved work was carried out by Mr. Harry Hems, of Exeter: the pulpit was presented by Mrs. Letheren, the organ by Mrs. Henry Pinckard, and the lectern by Miss Hart-ridge: in 1873 the church underwent a thorough restoration, at an expense of nearly £7,000, through the munificence of G. H. Pinckard esq. of Combe Court, God-alming, Surrey: there are 400 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1585; marriages and burials, 1569. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £207, with residence and 9 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and held since 1887 by the Rev. Henry Bremridge M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford, rural dean of Chulmleigh, and surrogate. The Rev. William Davey, vicar of this place and some time curate of Lustleigh, who died in 1826, wrote and printed with his own hands "A System of Divinity in 26 Volumes," 14 copies only being completed. A mission church, dedicated to St. Michael and All Angels, was erected at Hollacombe in 1891, at a cost of £900: the building is of local stone, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, vestry, porch and a tower: the stained central light of the east window was the gift of the parishioners in memory of the late Earl of Portsmouth, d. 1891; the windows on either side are memorials to the Rev. James Philip Bremridge M.A. vicar 1872-87, and his widow; services are held every Sunday. There are Wesleyan and Bible Christian chapels in the village, a Bible Christian chapel at Stable Green and a Congregational chapel at Hollacombe, erected in 1869. The church lands have been applied to the repair of the church from an early period, and comprise an undivided moiety of a farm, called East Chapple. The poor parishioners have £2 12s. yearly from Sir John Acland's charity and the interest of £30 left by unknown donors. A sum of money left by Mr. John Ashplant, the Skinner Charity and the Gidleigh Charity produce about £6 yearly, which is distributed among poor widows over 60 years of age. Fairs are held on the first Wednesdays in April, the first Monday after 8th of July and the first Wednesday in October, yearly, for cattle. There is a reading room supported by subscriptions. Winkleigh Court, the property of R. F. G. Johnson esq. J.P. is at present (1901) occupied by Sir Robert Joseph Crosthwaite K.C.S.I. Ronald Frederick Godolphin Johnson esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor, the Earl of Portsmouth, the trustees of the late John Tremayne esq. of Heligan, Cornwall, and Mr. Robert G. Luxton, of Brushford Barton, are the chief landowners. The soil is dunland; and the subsoil is chiefly clay, with some rock. Some parts of the parish are woody, and the remainder good corn and grazing land; together with some estates in Lapford, Coleridge and Zeal Monachorum parishes, it originally formed a hundred, now called Loosebeare tithing. The area is 9,209 acres of land, including a large tract of barren moor, and 0 of water; rateable value, £6,166; the population in 1901 was 1,079.

WITHERIDGE is a parish and village on the road from South Molton to Tiverton, 7 miles north-east from Lapford station on the North Devon branch of the London and South Western railway, and about 8 south-east from Bishopslympton station on the Barnstaple section of the Great Western railway, 10½ south-east from South Molton and 10½ west-by-north from Tiverton, in the Northern division of the county, Witheridge hundred, South Molton petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of South Molton, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. John the Baptist is an edifice of stone in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing a clock and 8 bells, cast in 1754, 1800 and 1889: the clock, which chimes the quarters, was presented by the late George Cutcliffe esq. at a cost of £250: the piers of the nave arcades and the pulpit, which is beautifully carved, are both of Beer stone: the organ was enlarged in 1885 at a cost of £200: there are six stained windows, three of which are memorials: the church was repaired about 1853, and again in 1866; in 1873 it was restored at a cost of £3,200, and in 1877 was re-seated at a cost of nearly £1,000, and has 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1485. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £260, including 45 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1893 by the Rev. John Peter Benson M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, and rural dean of South Molton. The Congregational chapel, built in 1839, has 230 sittings, and there is a Bible Christian chapel, built in 1859. The poor have £14 yearly in money. There are golf links of 18 holes. A fair is held on the third Thursday in April. Dart Ralph is the property of John Tremaine esq. and West Yeo of Mr. S. Cocks; Queen Dart belongs to Mr. Ayre. W. Moore esq. J. N. Pyke-Nott esq. Mr. Tucker, of Lapford, and Mr. Partridge own land here. Colleton is the property of Thomas William Charlton esq. The manor belongs to Charles Luxmoore esq. of Ashbrook Hall, Middlewich, Cheshire; that of Bradford Tracy belonged to the ancestors of Lord Sudeley, now to the Rev. J. P. Benson. The area is 6,982 acres of land and 19 of water; rateable value, £5,069; the population in 1891 was 868 in the civil and 1,022 in the ecclesiastical parish, and in 1901, 777 in the civil parish.

By Local Government Board Order 16,345, a detached part of this parish was added to Thelbridge, in Crediton union, and by Order 16,347 other detached parts known as Yeatheridge and Little Witheridge transferred to East Worlington, March 25, 1885.

WITHYCOMBE RALEIGH with the Hamlet of HULHAM.

WITHYCOMBE RALEIGH (formerly WITHECOMBE RALEIGH) is a parish and village, bounded on the west by the broad estuary of the river Exe, 1 to 2 miles north-east from Exmouth terminal station of a branch of the London and South Western railway and 9½ south-east from Exeter, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Budleigh, petty sessional division of Woodbury, union of St. Thomas, county court district of Exeter, rural deanery of Aylesbeare and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The parish comprises part of the town of Exmouth, and is under the control of the Exmouth Urban District Council. The old parish church of St. John the Baptist, built in the 15th century on the site of a more ancient chapel probably erected by some member of the Raleigh family, between 1254 and 1268, and commonly called St. John's-in-the-Wilderness, was taken down, with the exception of part of the north aisle and the detached embattled western tower with its octagonal stair turret, about 1748: these remains, all of Perpendicular date, situated in a sequestered spot, 1½ miles from the village, are now used as a mortuary chapel: the aisle has some windows of beautiful design and a fine timbered waggon roof: on the south side of the churchyard is an ancient and very fine yew tree, supposed to date from the Conquest, and adjoining the churchyard is the private burial ground of the Bryce family. The new church of St. John the Evangelist was built in 1864, at a cost of £5,000, on the site given by

J. Wood esq. and is a cruciform building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, south porch and an embattled tower on the south side, containing a clock and 8 bells, the last two having been added in 1893: the east window is a memorial to Frances Anne, wife of Otho Cooke esq. d. April 2, 1872: the west window was erected to Thomas Cobham esq. of Marley Lodge, d. Jan. 28, 1865; and there is one in the south aisle to Louisa, wife of J. B. Dawson Thomas, of Tregoes, Glamorganshire, d. May 22, 1869: there are 710 sittings. The registers date from the year 1562. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £182, with residence and 12 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Hon. M. G. Kerr Rolle, and held since 1892 by the Rev. Godfrey Pierre de Patron M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, who resides at Exmouth. There is a Wesleyan mission chapel, erected in 1884, with sittings for 150 persons. The Plymouth Brethren have a cemetery here about three-quarters of an acre in extent. The charitable institution called "Point-in-View" was founded in 1811 by the late Misses Parminter, and comprises dwellings for four poor aged maidens, with a small Congregational chapel and a house for the minister, erected the same year; the chapel stands in the centre, and over the door is the inscription, "Some point in view we all pursue." Drake's Charity provides £2 10s. yearly for apprenticing and £7 yearly for the preaching minister; Spicer's Charity, of £11 7s. yearly, bequeathed in 1844, is distributed in money by the freeholders in vestry to such deserving poor as are not in receipt of parish relief; John Spettigue left £100, the interest to be given in coal to the poor, and there is also Rowe's Charity of £4 11s. 8d. for bread, and Burford's of £5 10s. and Read's of £1 4s. both for the poor. Marpool Hall, a handsome mansion, is the seat of Sir John Budd Phear M.A., J.P.; Southlands is the seat of Lady Stuart; Marley, the property of Mrs. Bryce, but now (1901) unoccupied, stands on a commanding eminence, 2½ miles north-east of Exmouth, and is encompassed by ornamental shrubberies and extensive gardens, commanding delightful marine and land views: Bystock, the seat of Mrs. Bryce, is also an elegant mansion, standing in well-wooded grounds and distant one mile from the village; Courtlands, at present (1901) unoccupied, is a modern mansion on an eminence near the estuary of the river Exe, surrounded by ornamental gardens and a small park affording a fine prospect in all directions: Withycombe House, the seat of Adam Francis Terrell Shapland esq. is a modern castellated structure, with a tower in the centre; the grounds contain a lake crossed by a rustic bridge leading to a plantation on the higher grounds, from which a fine view is obtained of Exmouth and the sea: A-la-Bonde is the seat of the Rev. Oswald Joseph Reichel M.A., B.C.L., F.S.A. The Grange, the residence of Mrs. Stooks, stands in 13 acres of ground, well planted with trees and shrubs. Stoke Lyne is the residence of Miss Pinckney. There are three manors, viz., Bystock, of which Mrs. Bryce is lady; Marpool, of which Samuel Hull esq. is lord, and Hulham, of which John Drewe Pratt esq. of Belle Vue, Exmouth, is lord; these are also the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,232 acres of land, 3 of water, 3 of tidal water and 490 of foreshore; rateable value, £19,040; the population in 1901 was 4,699, including 4,000 in that part of Exmouth which is in this parish.

Under the provisions of the "Divided Parishes Act, 1882," a detached part of Colaton Raleigh, known as Bystock, has been added to this parish.

HULHAM is a hamlet, three-quarters of a mile north-west from Withycombe village, and consists of a few cottages and farms.

WOODBURY is a large village and parish, near the estuary of the river Exe and the roads leading from Exeter to Exmouth and Sidmouth, 2½ miles east from Woodbury Road station on the Exeter and Exmouth branch of the London and South Western railway, 7 south-east from Exeter, 3½ south-east from Topsham, 5 north-east from Exmouth and 178½ from London and is also the head of a petty sessional division, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Budleigh, union of St. Thomas, county court district of Exeter, rural deanery of Aylesbeare and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Swithin is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower, erected in 1408 and containing a clock and 8 bells, 6 of which (with the exception of the fourth, which has a prayer to the Virgin in Old English characters) are respectively dated 1737, 1624, 1605, 1677 and 1629; two new bells have been added, as a memorial to the Rev. J. L. Fulford M.A. vicar 1846-1900: the nave and tower are in the Perpendicular and the chancel in the Decorated style: in the church is a monument to Sir Henry Pollexfen kt. chief justice of the Common Pleas 1689-91, ob. June 15, 1691: in the north aisle is a flat stone, exhibiting the matrices of ancient brasses to the Haydon family: on the north side of the chancel is an altar tomb, with recumbent effigies of a knight in armour and a lady, probably representing Sir Thomas Prideaux kt. ob. 1640, and Joan (Cole), his wife: the stained east window was placed by the Misses Sanders, of Exeter, as a memorial to their parents, and there are other memorial windows to Mrs. Cowd and Col. Brent: in 1893 the church was restored at a cost of about £1,300, when the nave was new roofed, the arcade rebuilt and the high pews and the western galleries removed: there are 350 sittings. The register of baptisms and marriages dates from the year 1557; burials 1575, and is in good condition. The living is a titular vicarage, net yearly value £195, including 20 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Custos and College of Vicars Choral in Exeter Cathedral, and held since 1900 by the Rev. Robert Henry Neely B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The patrons also hold rectorial rights, the church and appurtenances having been given to them by Bishop Marshall (1196-1206). The chapel of ease in the hamlet of Exton is a small but plain building (originally a barn), with a thatched roof, and consisting only of nave and a belfry containing one bell: a choir stall and small organ were provided in 1901: there are 78 sittings. The Free church, built in 1851, is a plain edifice of brick with a turret containing one bell and will seat 200 persons. There is a small Unitarian chapel in the hamlet of Gulliford, erected in 1774, with an endowment of about £75 yearly from Lady Hewley's charity, but now closed. The charities include Geare's of £1,000, given in 1885; Hayman's of £504, in 1833; Spicer's of £100, in 1853; Ware's of £4 10s. yearly, given in 1691, and distributed in prizes at the school; and there is also a sum of £5 for bread and about £12 derived from lands. Here is a tannery and a malting establishment, and at Ebford a manufactory of nitrophosphate manure belonging to the Odams Chemical Co. The Woodbury Fire Brigade, which is under the control of the Parish Council, has an engine station, erected in 1885, and a manual engine and hose; a new engine was provided in 1900, at a cost of about £150. On the lofty summit of Woodbury common, which overlooks the Exe and Otter valleys, and commands a fine view of the sea, are the remains of an ancient entrenchment called "Woodbury Castle," of British or Saxon origin. Nutwell Court, an elegant modern mansion on the estuary of the river Exe, surrounded by trees and shrubberies, with a park extending over 76 acres, is the seat of Sir Francis George Augustus Fuller-Eliot-Drake bart. The Hon. Mark George Kerr Rolle, who is lord of the manor, Sir F. G. A. Fuller-Eliot-Drake bart. William Ashford esq. of Heavitree and Mrs. Brent-Spencer are the chief landowners, but there are several small freeholders. The soil is clay and good marl; subsoil, clay with large pebble. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley, beans and peas; turnips, swedes, mangolds, potatoes and apples are largely grown. The area is 6,720 acres of land, including 734 of common, 8 of tidal water and 336 of foreshore; rateable value, £10,418; the population in 1901 was 1,517.

The following are hamlets in this parish:—EBFORD, 2½ miles west-by-north; EXTON, 2 miles south-west; NUTWELL, 2 miles south-west, near the Woodbury Road station; GULLIFORD, 2½ miles south-west; WOODMANTON, three-quarters of a mile south; and the chapelry of WOODBURY SALTERTON, 1½ miles north.

By a Local Government Board Order, No. 16,545, which came into operation March 25, 1884, a detached part of this parish, known as Great and Little Houndbere, was amalgamated with Aylesbeare.

WOODBURY SALTERTON is a village and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1845 from portions of the civil parishes of Woodbury and Colaton Raleigh, 4 miles east from Topsham station on the Exmouth branch of the London and South Western railway, 6 south-east from Exeter and 6 north from Exmouth, in the Eastern division of the county, hundred of East Budleigh, Woodbury petty sessional division, St. Thomas union, county court district of Exeter, rural deanery of Aylesbeare, and archdeaconry and diocese of Exeter. The church of the Holy Trinity is a building of stone in the Gothic style, erected in 1844 by the late Miss Marianne Pidsley, of Greendale; it consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a western bellry containing 3 bells, all cast in 1844: the east window represents the "Incredulity of St. Thomas;" all the windows are stained, and were designed and executed by Mrs. Thornycroft, the patroness of the living; a new organ was erected in 1884 at a cost of £150: in 1894, on the 50th anniversary of the consecration of the church, a new reredos of carved oak was provided at a cost of about £70: the church will seat 240 persons. The register dates from the year 1845. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £225, with residence and 5 acres of glebe, in the gift of Mrs. Thornycroft, and held since 1882 by the Rev. Henry Powell Alford M.A. of New College, Oxford, and rural dean of Aylesbeare. In the centre of the village is a large stone water cistern, the gift of the late Miss Pidsley, the sides of which bear suitable scriptural texts. Richard Marker esq. who is lord of the manor, the Hon. Mark George Kerr Rolle, and Charles Edward Thornycroft esq. of Thornycroft Hall, Cheshire, are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, red sandstone. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and vetches; much of the land is pastureage, for dairy purposes. The population of the parish in 1901 was 226.

GREENDALE is a hamlet, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles north east, in the civil parish of Woodbury, but included in the ecclesiastical parish of Woodbury Salterton.

WOODLAND is a village and parish $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles east-by-south from Ashburton terminal station of a branch of the Great Western railway, and 6 south-west from Newton Abbot, in the Mid division of the county, Haytor hundred, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Newton Abbot union and county court district, rural deanery of Moreton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. John the Baptist is an edifice of stone in the Late Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower, containing 3 bells: there are several monumental tablets: the church affords 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. There are some curious and very valuable parochial deeds dating from 1532, and including original letters of King Henry VIII. with the great seal attached and a license from Cardinal Pole (temp. Philip and Mary). The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £197, with residence, in the gift of the parishioners, and held since 1898 by the Rev. Ernest Leslie Rogers. Gurrington is the property and residence of Lord Sherard. There are a few charities of the yearly value of about £20. Here are quarries producing a superior quality of green and purple slate. The kennels of the South Devon foxhounds are at Pulsford, in this parish: the pack hunts three times a week: Newton Abbot, Teignmouth, Torquay and Ashburton are convenient places for hunting visitors. Sir Francis John Milman bart. of Levaton, Irwin Edward Bainbridge Cox esq. M.P. of Mill Hill, Middlesex, William Henry Kitson esq. of Shipbay House, near Torquay, H. Bates esq. and George Edmund Allen esq. of Wickeridge, are the chief landowners. The soil is clayey; the subsoil, slate. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,634 acres; rateable value, £1,709; the population in 1901 was 170.

YARNSCOMBE is a parish and village $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-west from Chapelton and 4 miles west from Umlerleigh station on the North Devon branch of the London and South Western railway, about $5\frac{1}{2}$ north-east from Torrington, 8 south from Barnstaple and 10 west from South Molton, in the Northern division of the county, hundred of Hartland, petty sessional division, union and county court district of Torrington, rural deanery of Torrington, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch, and an embattled western tower on the north side containing 6 bells, the first three dated respectively 1709, 1631 and 1608: the chancel retains a piscina: there is an octagonal font of the Tudor period, and the staircase to the roof loft remains and some ancient stained glass, but the screen has disappeared: on the north side of the chancel, within a low-arched recess, is an altar-tomb, the upper slab of which bears a partly effaced inscription to John Cockworthy and his wife, of the 15th century; the church contains besides several monuments of the Loveband family from 1680, including one to the Rev. A. W. Loveband M.A. vicar, d. 1878; also memorials of the Trevelyan (1623), Pollards (1667) and Champneys (1681): the church was repaired and a vestry added in 1852, and the whole church was thoroughly restored in 1888-9 at a cost of £700, and affords 160 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £100, including 30 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1882 by the Rev. John Blood Singleton. There is an estate of 36 acres, producing £20 a year, for the repair of the school and church, which is managed by trustees; there are also charities of £1 10s. yearly, given by deed poll, for the benefit of the poor; and £2 to be distributed in bread. Yarnscombe Court, which was once a seat of the Cockworthy family and afterwards of the ancestors of the Right Hon. Sir G. Otto Trevelyan bart. P.C. is now a farm-house. Delly, an old manor house, much improved, is the property of Captain John Edgecombe Loveband, whose family has held land here since 1314; it is occupied as a farm. Northchurch was the residence of the Lovebands from 1314, but it passed to the Rolles in 1873 who also purchased from them the estate known as Graylake. The Hon. Mark George Kerr Rolle is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The manor of Little Yarnscombe belongs to the trustees of the late Ven. Charles Wellington Furse M.A. canon and archdeacon of Westminster (d. 1899); that of Yarnscombe Hankford is the property of the Misses Bellew. The soil is clayey; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The acreage is 3,470; rateable value, £2,002; the population in 1891 was 294 in the civil, and 286 in the ecclesiastical parish, and 279 in the civil parish in 1901.

By Local Government Board Order 14,972, a detached part of High Bickington, known as Langley Barton, was transferred to this parish, March 24, 1884.

YEALMPTON, or Yampton, is a parish and village, pleasantly situated, with a station on the new line of the London and South Western railway from Plymstock to this place; it is 5 miles south-east from Plympton station on the South Devon section of the Great Western railway and 7 south-east from Plymouth, in the Southern division of the county, Plympton hundred, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, rural deanery of Plympton, archdeaconry of Totnes and diocese of Exeter. The river Yealm runs through the parish and flows into the sea at Weembury. The church of St. Bartholomew is a building of stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: four of the windows are stained: it was rebuilt, with the exception of the tower, in 1850, at a cost of about £7,000, defrayed by the late Edmund Rodney Pollexfen Bastard esq. to whom there is a memorial window, erected by his friends and tenants: the columns which separate the nave and aisles are alternately of polished and rough marble of various colours: the screen between the chancel and nave is of carved marble, and the communion table consists of a carved oak frame, supporting a massive marble slab quarried in the locality: the font is of the same material and the walls are inlaid with marbles of various kinds: in the north aisle is a brass, with effigy in armour, and inscription to Sir John Crockher, cup and standard bearer to King Edward IV. who distinguished himself in suppressing Perkin Warbeck's rebellion in 1497; ob. 13 March, 1508. The register dates from the year 1630. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £240, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Exeter, and held since 1897 by the Rev. Henry James Warner M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here is a Wesleyan Methodist chapel. At Yealm-bridge are the chair, cabinet and flock works of Mr. Samuel Snawdon; these are worked by water power, and employ a large number of hands; there are also marble and granite works, and several limestone quarries. An important oyster-rearing industry has sprung up on the estuary of the Yealm, the sandy bottom of the upper part which is entirely free from sewage matter, being admirably suited for this purpose. In 1858 Charles Anthony bestowed £36 yearly for clothes, bedding, coals and to provide necessaries for the sick poor; and at his death left £60 yearly to clothe 6 old men and 6 old women and for educating and clothing 30 children. A cattle market is held the fourth Wednesday in each month. A Sessions House and Police Station was built in 1864. There is a reading room and library, supported by subscriptions. Kitley, a fine Elizabethan mansion on the estuary of the Yealm, and containing a good collection of paintings, is the seat of Baldwin John Pollexfen Bastard esq. D.L., J.P. lord of the manor and principal landowner; the family of the present owner has been seated in Devonshire since the period of the Norman Conquest. The soil is light; and the subsoil, limestone and marble in great variety. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,164 acres of land, 27 of water, 6 of tidal water and 71 of foreshore; rateable value, £5,704; the population in 1891 was 879.

WORCESTON, 1 mile north-east, DUNSTONE, 1 east, and LYNEHAM, 1 north, are hamlets in this parish.

ZEAL MONACHORUM is a parish and village, 2½ miles south-west from the Mordard Road station on the North Devon branch of the London and South Western railway, 7 north-west from Crediton and 15½ north-west from Exeter, in the Northern division of the county, North Tawton hundred, Crediton petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Chulmleigh, archdeaconry of Barnstaple and diocese of Exeter. This place derives its name suffix from having been given by Knut the Dane to the Abbey of Buckfastleigh. The church of St. Peter is a building in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, north transept, south porch and an embattled western tower, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 5 bells, east by Thomas Bilbie in 1749: there is a fine stained east window, and other windows were renewed at the expense of the late Rev. H. J. A. Fothergill, a former rector, and his family: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1594. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £310, including 51 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of and held since 1886 by the Rev. Edwin Thomas Allen B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The charities are of the annual value of £15, £12 of which, left by F. Hole, is distributed in clothing and the remainder in money. There is also a gift of £2 yearly in bread to the poor, the payment of which is chargeable on the manor of Great Foldhay. Weeks Hole esq. who died in 1768, gave the sum of £100 for the education of poor children of this parish. Robert Parker, who died in 1730, left a benefaction to the poor, derivable from the manor of Burrow in Morthoe parish. William Henry Kelland esq. of Torr Down, Exbourne, founded in 1887 a charity to the poor, to be called "the Colmore gift," in memory of the family of that name. In 1887 a reservoir was constructed and pipes laid conveying a supply of water throughout the village, at the sole expense of Richard Davy esq. of Burston. Christian Jeffery died here in 1868 at the age of 103. The Colmore family were settled here and at Loxbeare for nearly three centuries. Little Loosebeare belongs to William Snell esq. of Lance Levy, Sheffield, Basingstoke. Burston House, an inheritance from the Sweet family, is the property and residence of Richard Davy M.B., F.R.C.S. Eng., F.R.S.E. Great Foldhay, the original seat of the Hole family, was purchased in 1886 by William Kelland esq. Little Foldhay belongs to Mr. John Bushell; Burrow to Richard Aram Hole esq. M.A. of The Firs, Middle Warberry road, Torquay, it having been in his family for several generations. Gillhouse, formerly the property of the late W. Snell-Hill esq. now belongs to the Misses Hill. The manors of Zeal Monachorum and Loosebeare, or Loxbeare, belonged in 1590 to the Seymours, ancestors of the Dukes of Somerset, from whom they passed by marriage to the Parkers, created Barons Boringdon and Earls of Morley, by whom they were sold in 1737, Loosebeare being purchased by Richard Kelland esq. of Lapford, and Zeal by Henry Ley esq. of Trehill. John Henry Francis Ley esq. of Trehill, Kenn, who is now lord of the manor of Zeal, and the trustees of John Kelland esq. M.A., J.P. of The Manor, Totnes, who are lords of that of Loosebeare; Robert Pedler, John Pedler, William Carter Pedler, Richard Davy, R. A. Hole, J. G. Kelland, and William Kelland esqrs. the Misses Hill and the rector are the principal landowners. The soil at the north of the parish is clay, that at the south red loam; the subsoil is rocky. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots and pasturage. The area is 3,306 acres of land and 7 of water; rateable value, £2,975; the population in 1901 was 316.

Post Office.—John Hooper, sub-postmaster. Letters through Bow B.S.O. North Devon, arrive at 6.45 a.m.; dispatched at 6.45 a.m. & 6.20 p.m. Postal orders are issued here, but not paid. Bow is the nearest money order & telegraph office, 2 miles distant.

A School Board of 5 members was formed Feb. 3, 1875; Rev. Edwin Thomas Allen B.A. chairman & hon. clerk to the board & attendance officer.

Board School (mixed & infants), for 108 children; average attendance, 40; Henry James Foord, master; Miss Fanny Grant, infants' mistress.
